Library boundary wars

Pontoon wants Granite kept out

By Valerie Evenden
Staff writer

PONTON BEACH — In a move to stop efforts by the Granite City Public Library to expand services into the village, petitions are being prepared seeking a referendum to establish a library district.

The signatures of 100 village residents are required on the petitions, which must be filed with Village Clerk Mary Warren in order to start proceedings for a village referendum on the library issue.

Village Attorney Keith Jensen is preparing the petitions and a vote by the public is being planned for November.

If approval to create a library district is granted by voters, a tax of 1.5 cents per $100 assessed valuation would be added to a village resident's real estate taxes, according to Warren. That would equate to about $1.50 a year on a home valued at $30,000 and assessed at one-third fair market value. This amount would produce $19,000 a year; it was estimated.

The highest tax rate now paid by the village resident is 7.5 cents per $100 assessment for police services, Warren said Wednesday.

Village officials acted after learning the Granite City Public Library was considering seeking to expand its boundaries to become coterminous with the Granite City School District 9 lines. The move would include the village of Pontoon Beach.

The Granite City Library was proposing to hold a referendum on the issue in March 1990, trustees were told.

A tax rate of 29 cents per $100 assessed valuation was proposed for a new Granite City Library District.

The decision to seek a referendum in November 1989 was made at a special meeting of village trustees on April 29.

The special session was called after Trustee Irene Karlechik and members of the Pontoon Beach Library Board, Judith Merritt, Alice Lucas and Robbie Wilson, met April 27 with representatives of the Granite City Library. In a meeting at the Lewis and Clark Library in East Alton.

Karlechik said the meeting was "very informative," but it appeared that Granite Citizens were trying to "push us into the background and also wanting to take advantage of the fact that they can use our area to secure a $107,000 grant," she told the trustees.

A breakdown of a $139,000 Project Plus program suggested by Granite City listed:

- $34,500 for materials;
- $26,500 for equipment;
- $15,500 for campaign consultants;
- $34,000 for contractual services/bookkeeping and audit;
- $19,300 for personnel;
- $3,200 for fringe benefits for personnel;
- $1,000 for travel;
- and $5,000 for other equipment.

Those attending the meeting at Lewis and Clark Library were asked "not to give out any publicity on the project and to put nothing in the newspaper," it was contended by those present from Pontoon Beach.

Director Robert Stack of the Granite City Library had asked for a commitment from village representatives to support the proposal by April 29, it was related.

Information received at the Lewis and Clark meeting, those attending said, referred to the Hartford Library District.

Hartford was said to be discussing trying to "take over part of Granite City" for purposes of obtaining a Project Plus Grant.

Granite City, in turn, applied for a grant; it met with Hartford and the two agreed to divide territory along the School District 9 boundary line, the Cahokia (Hartford) Canal, it was asserted.

With regional library system officials eager to see the grant obtained by someone, the funds would have been shared by Granite City and Hartford, reports were indicated.

Pontoon Beach currently does not have a tax-supported library but has set up a library board to oversee a proposed non-tax library. Now, the proposed fall referendum would establish a small tax.

Village representatives said Ron Coleman, head librarian for the Granite City School District and a member of the Granite City Library Board, asked what the village needed if the reply received such a grant. The reply was said to be that Pontoon Beach residents wanted a library facility within the village this year, paid for out of the grant funds.

The entire village area would be made part of a Granite City library district under this approach. However, Pontoon Beach representatives said no contact had been received from Stack to verify that the grant application would include the village's request.

Village Trustee Marvin Ribbing asked if, assuming village residents voted to create a Pontoon Beach library district, that action would "eliminate Granite City's proposal."

Ribbing later made a motion to seek a November referendum to create a public library district with power to levy a 1.5-cent tax rate. The motion was seconded by Trustee Bob Douglas and approved.

Granite: 'Being forced'

By Mike Myers
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — Despite contentions, the Granite City Library has "no fuss with the Village of Pontoon Beach," Library Board Member Ron Coleman said Wednesday.

Coleman said the proposed formation of a library district with the same boundary as Granite City School District 9 was "being forced upon us" by the state.

The proposed district would include Pontoon Beach, Chouteau and Nameoki townships. Formation of the district is required to obtain what is known as a Project Plus grant. Such money is given to districts seeking to expand into areas not served by a tax-supported library.

"We are serving all the elementary students in the district, including those who live in Pontoon Beach, Chouteau and Nameoki," Coleman said. "The state tells us that, without charging them, that is illegal. So the grant is there to make the district so we can legally serve all the school district (with public library services)."

He said formation of the new district would require a referendum, probably next March. It would be voted on by the residents in the city, village and both townships. However, Pontoon officials are considering holding their own referendum and may take such a vote first.

A recent vote to include the Mitchell area of Chouteau Township in the Hartford Library District failed, Coleman said.

"If it had passed, the residents would have been encouraged to use our library while paying tax to Hartford," he said. "We felt, well, like Hartford was trying to take over our area. So we decided to accept the grant and form a district."

"Now, Pontoon Beach feels the same way we did."

Coleman said there was no intention to ignore Pontoon Beach wishes. In fact, Granite City library officials met with Pontoon Beach representatives after the village first began considering forming a free library.

Knight at home in role as chief

By Valerie Evenden
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — Don Knight looked perfectly at home behind the police chief's desk early Tuesday morning.

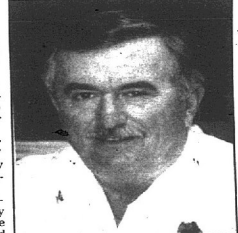

The veteran detective was relaxed and confident as he settled into his new job as top administrator of the 53-member police force.

"I don't plan any major changes in the department," Knight said. "Mainly, I'll follow the course taken since Jim Lengyel took over," he said.

Lengyel voluntarily relinquished the chief's post Monday after serving as chief since June 1988. Knight was then appointed by Mayor Von Des Cruse.

Reshuffling may take place in the department, but nothing on a major scale, Knight said. He pointed out that all four police captains are experienced in each of the department's divisions. Should reassignment occur, it will not be a major event, he said. Any new assignments will be announced Monday, he said.

Lt. Col. Ron Selph will remain as assistant police chief.

Chief Don Knight

"I can work well with him and I'm glad he's there," Knight said.

"I am really honored that the mayor gave me this opportunity," he said.

"I remember when a man took a chance on me once (See KNIGHT, Page 12A)

Central Bank leaves Edison, moves to Nameoki & Fehling

GRANITE CITY — Central Bank of Granite City at 1909 Edison Ave. will close permanently on Friday, May 12, moving its operations to Nameoki and Fehling roads.

Bart J. Solon, president and chief executive officer, said Central will complete the extensive remodeling of its Nameoki facility this week.

The Nameoki location will house Central's Trust Division, Indirect Finance Division, and Consumer and Real Estate Loan departments in addition to Nameoki's administrative and operational staff.

Central Bank also has a Granite City facility at 2404 Madison Ave.

Last fall, it was announced Central Bank would donate the historic 1909 Edison Building and an option on the building's accompanying downtown parking to the City of Granite City to make way for the planned future redevelopment of the downtown area.

Solon said the contribution of the 1909 Edison Building and the remodeling and expansion of the Nameoki facility, the former American Heritage Bank, are evidence of Central Bank's continuing commitment to meeting the financial service needs of the community.

"Our bank has grown with this community, and in 1989 our focus will be on quality — quality of both products and service. Every person in this corporation expects a high level of service and convenience from our institution. This extensive remodeling of the Nameoki facility is substantiation of our commitment to our customers."

Central Bank is a member of Central Banc System Inc., a $278,009,000 bank holding company, and has locations in Granite City, Glen Carbon, Marine and Fairview Heights. Another member of Central Banc System Inc. is the Farmers and Merchants Bank in Carlinville.

Old Logan goes up for sale

By Nicole Vaughn

GRANITE CITY — For perhaps as little as $15,000 you can purchase a piece of local history.

Logan School, now known as the "Logan Annex," a four-classroom building in the 2400 block of Logan Avenue, joined the ranks of Granite City schools in 1913. Long since vacant, it is going up for sale.

The District 9 school board decided last week that the vacant building and the property it occupies were no longer of any use. The board passed a resolution to sell the school and its site by sealed bid for a minimum of $15,000.

A new "Logan School," 2400 W. 24th St., was built in 1965 and is also vacant. Prather School, a spacious nearby building and a former junior high school, now operates as an elementary school.

Logan Annex became the fifth school in the district following the Emerson (1897), Washington (1901), McKinley (1906) and Webster (1907) schools.

The sale plan and a description of the property to be sold have been submitted to Regional Superintendent of Schools Harry Briggs Jr. for approval. Briggs' office is expected to begin advertising the sale next month, Ron Landman, District 9 director of buildings and grounds, said.

"We have to advertise it for three weeks and then we can see what we've got," Landman said.

Landman said some action on the sale may be taken by the June 27 board meeting, based on proceedings by Madison County (See LOGAN, Page 12A)

Police Memorial Day will be May 18

Law enforcement officers from all police departments in Madison County will gather at 10:30 a.m. Thursday, May 18, at the Madison County Courthouse, Edwardsville, to honor those police officers who have died in the line of duty.

Illinois Attorney General Neil F. Hartigan will be guest speaker at the third annual ceremony to be held in the courthouse lobby, according to Deputy Sheriff John Onesky, chairman and secretary of the Madison County Police Association.

Currently serving his second term as the 39th Illinois attorney general, Hartigan was first elected in November 1982. In 1973, he served as the youngest lieutenant governor in the United States.

The Police Officers Memorial Day honors and remembers not only officers who made the ultimate sacrifice for their communities over the years, but also remembers the families left behind, Onesky said.

"We are encouraging all law enforcement officers from Madison County to participate in the third annual ceremony," Onesky said. The county police association is sponsoring the event.

Officers killed in the line of duty in Madison County whose names appear on the plaque displayed at the courthouse are:

Officer David McCain, Highland Police Department, May 5, 1930.

Officer Eddis Miller, Alton Police Department, July 22, 1937. State Trooper A.P. Goetting, Illinois State Police, Feb. 4, 1951. Deputy James Abel, Madison County Sheriff's Department, Dec. 30, 1976.

Some family members of the deceased officers will attend the ceremony, which includes presentation of the colors, introduction of guests, reading of the officers' names, wreath-laying, benediction and sounding of "Taps."

Participating officers are being asked to assemble in Edwardsville at 9:30 a.m. May 18 on Second Street, near the large parking area on the north side of the Madison County Jail. The officers will then walk as a group, starting at 10 a.m., to the courthouse.

A concluding ceremony and luncheon will be hosted by the Sheriff's Department at 11:15 a.m. at Moose Hall in Wood River.

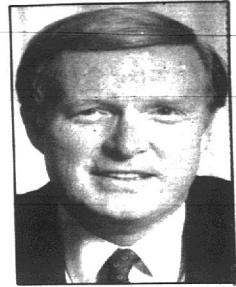

During his administration, Hartigan has established separate advocacy divisions to address the needs of senior citizens, disabled persons, crime victims, veterans and farmers.

He also has vigorously defended the rights of Illinois consumers and received national acclaim for his tough stance on deceptive advertising, travel fraud and home repair scams.

Under Hartigan, criminal penalties have been added to existing civil penalties for offenders of home repair fraud and environmental waste disposal. Hartigan has brought more than a half-billion dollars into the state treasury to fund education, mental health services, senior citizen services and other social service programs.

To ensure that the needs are being met, Hartigan has instituted a series of advisory councils.

Among these is the Law Enforcement Advisory Council, which brings together law enforcement officials at the state, county and municipal levels to pool knowledge and combine resources.

Area driver hurt, later charged

An accident in the 2900 block of Madison Avenue at 11 a.m. May 5 involved an auto operated by Brian L. Dickey, 25, of Edwardsville, who sustained an injury and was taken by ambulance to the St. Elizabeth Medical Center emergency room.

The motorist was charged with driving while his license was suspended.

Dickey's car was stopped in northbound traffic when a northbound pickup truck driven by Dwight F. Wade, 24, of the 2300 block of East 24th Street changed lanes because another vehicle stopped. The truck struck the rear of Dickey's car.

Two passengers injured
Two passengers in a van operated by Marsha K. Legate, 38, of the 2800 block of Willow Avenue sustained injuries in a traffic accident May 5.

Rhonda Legate, 16, and Stella Cahoon, 20, both of the Willow Avenue address, were hurt and Rhonda Legate was taken to the St. Elizabeth Medical Center emergency room.

Marsha Legate's van was stopped in traffic at a red signal light on Namecki Road at Jill Avenue when an auto operated by Christopher Trebing, 16, of the 1900 block of Sken Street, Madison, was pushed against the van.

Trebing's car, also halted in traffic, had been hit from the rear by an auto driven by Linda A. Chism, 31, of the 2900 block of Briarwood Drive. All three vehicles were facing south.

Transferred to county
James Russell Graham, 25, of the 2300 block of East 23rd Street, arrested in the 2900 block of Oregon Avenue on a felony charge of theft, was transferred to the Madison County Jail at Edwardsville following a May 4 appearance in the Granite City Court.

Weapon charge filed after struggle
Getting an unwanted man out of an apartment in the 3900 block of Oakmont Drive took the combined efforts of three police officers April 21.

The incident ended with Barry W. Church, 28, of the 2100 block of Robert Avenue being arrested and charged with unlawful use of a weapon, battery and resisting arrest.

Dawn L. Veach met police outside her apartment and alleged Church shoved her outside several times while he remained inside the residence. Church allegedly had turned off electric power and the apartment was dark.

No keys were available from the landlord and officers were asked by Veach to enter the apartment through a window. Church allegedly was found hiding under a couch, from where he jumped up and pushed the officers.

The struggle ended in a bedroom where two knives were seen in the back waistband of Church's pants, an officer alleged. The man was forced onto a bed and allegedly kicked and hit an officer before being placed in a squad car.

Church was transferred to the Venice City Jail and later appeared in the Granite City court. He was released on recogni-

Charged with damage

Tresha Mae Robertson, 28, of the 1600 block of East 23rd Street was charged with criminal damage to property at 1:55 a.m. May 6 at the home of Angela Hayes in the 2200 block of Lee Avenue. Officers arrived at the Hayes address and alleged Robertson was outside the home. Hayes said Robertson had broken a door window there.

Arrested on warrant

Tracy Lee Earls, 25, of the 2500 block of East 27th Street was transferred from the Pontoon Beach Police Station to Granite City at 11 p.m. May 5 on a 3rd Judicial Circuit warrant alleging contempt of court on charges of driving while his license was suspended, leaving the scene of an accident and making excessive vehicle noise.

$446 missing at office

A total of $446 was missing May 5 from an office at the Southern Madison County Mental Health Center in the 2000 block of State Street.

Garage tool burglary

Cinco de Mayo

Anniversary of Mexico's freedom celebrated Saturday

Traditional folk dances and a variety of Mexican food highlighted the annual Cinco de Mayo fiesta Saturday night at the Mexican Honorary Hall. The event celebrated the victory in the Battle of Puebla on May 5, 1862, that proved to be the turning point in the war to free Mexico. At left, Mike Harper and Linda Pastoriza perform the traditional "Jarabe Tapatio" or Mexican Hat Dance. Above, Ruth Elliott wipes a tear from her eye as Mexican Honorary Commission President Robert Robles Sr. reads the inscription from the "Amigo of the Year" award presented to her for exceptional work for the community and club.

Government commodities to be distributed

Officials in Nameoki, Chouteau and Venice townships and at the Salvation Army have announced that surplus government commodities will be distributed this month, on May 17.

Commodities will include corn meal, butter, flour, peanut butter, canned pork, vegetarian beans, egg mix, raisins and honey. Corn meal and flour are in short supply.

All products will be given out on a first-come, first-served basis by ticket number received at the door.

The Salvation Army, 3007 E. 23rd St., will conduct its distribution of surplus food to Granite City Township residents Wednesday, May 17, starting at 8 a.m.

Venice Township will give out commodities at 8 a.m. Wednesday, May 17, at Engelbert Hall, 10th Street and Washington Avenue, Madison.

Township officials said commodities will be given only at the hall and recipients must present a signed affidavit before receiving the commodities.

Nameoki Township will give out commodities on Wednesday, May 17, starting at 7:30 a.m. at the Nameoki Township building, 4250 Illinois 162.

Chouteau Township will give out commodities for its residents starting at 8 a.m. Wednesday, May 17, at the Chouteau Township Social Center, 906 Thorngate Drive in Mitchell.

To be eligible to receive commodities, persons must be head of a household or the spouse, have their Social Security number, and sign an affidavit that their total household income is within the guidelines.

Recipients are to bring some proof of residency other than a driver license or voter registration card.

An unpaid utility bill, a property tax statement, a current rent receipt with the address or a public aid card or medical card is adequate, officials said.

Monthly income guidelines are as follows: one-person family, $601; two in the family, $805; three persons, $1,009; four persons, $1,214; five persons, $1,418; six persons, $1,622; seven persons, $1,826; eight persons, $2,030; and $204 for each additional member of the household.

There is no discrimination against groups of any kind in the food distribution program.

'Child's Play' group entertains kids

Children at two Granite City schools not only got to watch a theatrical performance — a few even got to see their own work in action.

Members of the Child's Play Touring Theater of Chicago visited Parkview and Mitchell schools. The group tours several states, creating performances from elementary school children's work.

Children at both schools not only watched but were even able to perform in some of the plays. In a few cases, the plays were taken from stories written by fellow students.

At Parkview School, Melanie Embick's "The Magic Chalk" and Vicki Crowell's "The Growing Garden" were performed. The girls are both sixth-graders.

At Mitchell School, fourth-grader Sarah Saebens' "How Lorenzo" was performed with students Casey Leibold and Robert Weeks performing in the play.

"Certificates of Creativity" were presented to several children at both schools for their superior work they did on their "Young Authors" stories.

Receiving awards at Parkview School were Rachel Boone, Matt Owca, Amber Guilford, Summer Kousge, Sarah Shelton, Kellie Dellamano, Amanda Pyles, Shawn Phillips, Amanda Crabtree, Jamie Warren and Corinne O'Dell.

Receiving awards at Mitchell School were Kelly Ahlers, Jason Cox, Jennifer Garner, Kim McNall, Amy Schilling, Robbie Taylor, Heather Walker and Karla Williams.

Marshall PTA elects officers

During the April meeting of the Marshall School PTA, officers for 1989-90 were elected.

Elected were: Paul Reagan, president; Nancy Sanders-Miles, vice president; Cindy Rodgers, treasurer; Barbara Bronnauer, recording secretary; and Joan Stark, corresponding secretary. The new officers will be seated during the last meeting of the school year in May.

The meeting was followed by a special theater presentation of "Miss Louisa and the Outlaws" by Nancy Sanders-Miles' fifth-grade class.

JOINS OHSA: Cynthia Ohsa, a senior at Granite City High School, has been chosen for membership by the Outstanding High School Students of America based on outstanding merit and accomplishment. The daughter of Dave and JoAnn Ohsa, she recently received an Outstanding Youth Achievement award from the Granite City Ambassadors Club.

Secretaries study telephone etiquette

The Future Secretaries of Madison High School, has been selected for membership by the guest speaker of their April meeting.

Green's talk and slide presentation were on telephone etiquette.

Joins organization

Christine M. Mills, a junior at Granite City High School, has been selected for membership by the Outstanding High School Students of America based on outstanding merit and achievement.

Christine is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Mills and the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Mills, all of Granite City.

Stiehl will be speaker at BAC graduation May 12

U.S. District Judge William D. Stiehl will be the featured speaker at Belleville Area College's annual commencement Friday.

The ceremony will begin at 7:45 p.m. in the Belleville Campus Varsity Gymnasium, 2500 Carlyle Road.

More than 1,000 graduates from the past three semesters will be honored. Approximately 300 are expected to attend. The college's Jazz Lab Band, under the direction of instrumental music instructor Jerry Bolen, will perform prior to the commencement, beginning at 7:15 p.m.

"Commencement is a special event at our community college," said the BAC president, Dr. Joseph J. Cipri. "It is a time for the college family to celebrate publicly — with the graduates, their families and friends."

Stiehl was appointed district judge of the Southern District of Illinois in 1986 by President Ronald Reagan.

A graduate of the St. Louis University School of Law, Stiehl began his practice of law in 1950 in Belleville.

He was the senior partner in the law firm of Stiehl & Stiehl when he was named to the federal bench.

Stiehl has three decades of service in various local and state government offices.

He has served as a member of both the Illinois Constitutional Study Commission and the Governor's Advisory Council.

He also is well acquainted with the college, serving on the board of education for Belleville Township High School and Junior College from 1949-50 and 1964-67. He served as president of that board in 1956-57.

Stiehl served in the U.S. Navy during World War II and the Korean war and is a retired Naval Reserve commander.

Recipients of several special awards will be recognized.

The awards and their recipients include: Special Recognition Award — Dr. Willard C. Scrivner, now retired. Scrivner is considered the father of the college's nursing program.

Distinguished Alumnus Award — Dr. Thomas Amlung, a 1966 graduate. Dr. Amlung maintains veterinarian practices in Belleville and Mascoutah.

Pacesetter Award — Joyce Carich, a 1988 graduate. Carich owns and operates G.C. Plumbing Inc. in Collinsville.

Faculty Member of the Year — Thomas L. Cochran, mathematics instructor since 1973. Cochran has shown leadership with the college and with the math discipline.

College Staff Member of the Year — Carol Lehr, records clerk in the registrar's office. She processes more than 12,000 transcripts yearly.

Administrator of the year — Eugene Verdu, executive director of special programs. Since 1973, Verdu has helped the college's Programs and Services for Older Persons grow from a one-program agency to seven programs with an annual budget of more than $1.5 million. He also is responsible for BAC's Business Assistance Center.

Senior Fair visits Granite Saturday

Recognition of those who have given unselfishly to providing vital services to the seniors of the community will take place at the annual Granitefest Senior Fair to be held Saturday at BAC Granite City Campus.

The fair, sponsored this year by the Granite City Ambassadors, will run from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Event coordinator Rosemarie Brown of Granite City said, "We will be honoring those who have worked to promote the betterment of the senior citizen in our community." Among those to be honored are two men who volunteered their time to install lifelong systems in the homes of the elderly; a group of men who provide free pallbearer services for the elderly; two retirees who provide drivers training for the elderly; a local woman who provides free insurance information every week through the City Hall; and the three persons appointed by the Senior Council to assist the mayor's coordinating committee.

Co-chairing the event with Rosemarie Brown are her husband, Dan, and Bob and Pat Thomas.

The Health Screening is under the direction of Marti Hogan and Ralph Hausman of St. Elizabeth Medical Center and the Fashion Show is under the direction of Elmer and Judy Stille of Tops & Bottoms Store in Granite City.

Harman is employed by Curtis-Toledo Inc. of St. Louis as an electronics technician.

The couple is planning an Aug. 26 wedding at St. John United Church of Christ in Granite City.

Methuist Circle gathering remembers 'mom'

Ruth Circle of Niedringhaus United Methodist Church met in the church parlor.

Dorothy Whitmer, acting leader, opened the meeting with a prayer.

Junia Brown read a poem titled "My Mother Is" and read a "Mother's Day Prayer."

Clara Huber, co-hostess, read the devotion for "The Least Coin" titled "Toward Peace and Justice." She also read a poem "Spring Cleaning." The lesson, "Mother to Mother," was presented by Gladys Potillo.

The Ruth Circle plans to go to Josephine's for lunch on June 1.

There was a discussion of coming events.

Others attending the meeting were: co-hostess Joyce Albers, Geneva Miller, Dorothy Frohardt, Mary Mae, Pauline Cox, Betty McClintock, Joanne Kraus and Dolores Allen.

Eagle Stone to host Sunday service

Gospel ministers the Revs. Urban and Carle Gaxiel will preach at the 7 p.m. Sunday service at Eagle Stone Worship Center, 14th and Iowa streets, Madison.

The couple will share their life testimonies in word and song. Their theme will be preventing bitterness, rage, low self-esteem, depression, marital problems and abuse.

Audubon Society plans slide show

The Southwestern Illinois Audubon Society will hold a membership night at 7:30 p.m. Monday in the Community Room of the First Federal Savings and Loan, 300 St. Louis St., Edwardsville. Members should bring slides on nature and travel. The limit is 10.

Gary Von Drasek also will display bird symbols in various craft items.

There is no charge and guests are welcome.

On Saturday, a light breakfast will be provided by the club, and a walk at Horseshoe Lake is planned. Club members are to meet at the pavilion west of the causeway at 10 a.m. Entrance to the park is off Illinois 111.

The reunion will be June 24 at Char's Restaurant in Collinsville.

Those still being sought are: Barbara Ballew, Francine Barnes, George Buckles, Russell Burnett, Maggie Byrd, Patricia Sue Byrd, Shirley Collier, Ronald Dozier, Kenneth Hill, Jami Johnson, Ruth Lomax, Don Osborne, Frances Owens, Hazel Reed, Georgia Sanders, Jackie Scutlock, Richard Smith, Robert Stein, Sarah Williams, Katie Yates.

Mother-daughter fete for Elkettes

The Elkettes held a Mother and Daughter Banquet at its May meeting.

Helen Bergfield was recognized by newly installed President Esther Vasileff as one of the Women of Achievement who will be honored May 17.

Theresa Harding, chaplain, gave the prayer.

The tables were decorated in the club colors, pink and orchid. Plants on each table were given as attendance prizes.

In attendance were 185 women and their daughters. Dinner was served by Jerry's Restaurant.

On the committee for the party was Esther Williams, Virginia Warford, Joyce Albers, Babe Jenkins and Elsie Rodell.

Providing the entertainment was storyteller Ron Adams of Collinsville of Riverwind Storyteller.

Annual barbecue cooks up May 13

Good Shepherd United Methodist Church, 305 National Ave., in Glenview, will hold its monthly barbecue on Saturday.

Serving time will be from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. Carryouts will be available. Those who wish to order ahead on want carryouts should call 877-7027.

Proceeds will go into a building fund.

Church sets focus on family group

Focusing on the difficulties faced by American families, the church family of Second Baptist Church, 2100 Illinois Ave., will present the little drama "Bind Us Together."

The performance will be at 7 p.m. Sunday, Mother's Day. Admission will be free and seating will be limited.

Pastor Mark Haumschilt said, "Being a close growing family in today's society is very difficult. We are running faster than ever before and listening to one another less and less. Communication breaks down from generation to generation."

Haumschilt believes that most families want to build a loving home but are often unable to achieve that goal.

"Bind Us Together" begins with a couple joined in marriage and continues with scenes of them raising children, their children leaving home and the loss of a loved one.

Theta Iota chapter elects president

Theta Iota, chapter of Beta Sigma Phi, met in the home of Debbie Antognoli on April 12. President Barb Young called the meeting to order with the recitation of the opening ritual.

Recording Secretary Cecelia Kamacho took roll call and read the minutes from the last meeting. Treasurer Joyce Alexander then gave the chapter treasury report.

Miriam Taylor was elected president for the 1989-90 year. Also elected were Marguerita (GG) Kamacho, vice president; Cecelia Kamacho, recording secretary; Young, corresponding secretary; Vickie Miller, treasurer; and Antognoli, extension officer.

City Council representatives will be Cecelia and Marguerita Kamacho with Alexander as an alternate.

The cultural program was on "Spring and Summer Flowers." The members took a quiz on different types of flowers. Kathi Williams won the prize for knowing the name of most of the flowers.

Antognoli served refreshments to the following members present: Young, Williams, Alexander, GG Kamacho, Cecelia Kamacho, Taylor, Debbie Griffin, Miller and Antognoli.

The chapter also met in the home of Alexander on April 25.

Recording Secretary Cecelia Kamacho took roll call and then she read the minutes from the last meeting. Alexander gave the chapter treasury report.

Alexander then gave her cultural report on the art of massage. She showed several different forms of massage.

Taylor adjourned the meeting with the recitation of the closing ritual.

Alexander then served refreshments to those members and guests present: Taylor, Kathy Kennerly, Cecelia Kamacho, GG Kamacho, Young and Jamie Alexander.

On April 26, four members of Theta Iota traveled to Stuart Anderson's Restaurant in St. Louis for Founder's Day '89.

Marguerita Kamacho was honored as the chapter's "Girl of the Year."

Those members attending were: Alexander, Antognoli, Kennerly and Taylor.

Party to open historic exhibit

The Missouri Historical Society and Landmarks Association of St. Louis, Inc. will open events for Historic Preservation Week with a cocktail reception at the Jefferson Memorial Building in Forest Park on May 13.

Guests will preview the major architectural exhibition, "The Spirit of H.H. Richardson on the Midland Prairies," which opens to the public on May 14. The cost of $10 is payable at the door.

NEW ELKS OFFICERS: Officers installed by the Granite City Elks for the 1989-90 year are: Paul Schrage, leading knight; William Albers, trustee; Scott Onye, esquire; Bob Meszaros, lecturing knight; Leon Thouvenot, treasurer; Dennis Riggs, exalted ruler; Robert Riggs, chaplain; Jesse Norman, tiler; William Russell, secretary; Steven Isenburg, loyal knight; and Ron Smith, inner guard. Past exalted rulers participated in the ceremony. Exalted rulers awards were given to Bill Albers and Paul Schrage and grand exalted ruler awards were given to Stanley Brown and William Russell. The Elkettes supplied refreshments. Entertainment was enjoyed by about 125.

WE CAN MAKE HER MOTHER'S DAY HAPPY!!!

Romans 4:21 "And being fully persuaded that what He had promised, He was able also to perform."

Abraham is the one who is fully persuaded that God is able to fulfill His promises. When we get right down to it, we have to acknowledge that God is able. Our arguments fall by the wayside when we read the Bible and see all the wondrous works of God. He is able to do what He said He would do.

What we must concentrate on is getting ourselves fully persuaded that He is able. We can pray and ask God to strengthen our faith. We can read His Word and hide it in our hearts and it will produce faith. We can count our blessings and bring to memory times past when God met our needs. All these things will help persuade us.

Last but not least, we can make up our minds that we won't have it any other way. He is our God and we are His children. He wants the best for us. He loves us, and assures us that we can have all that He has promised. If we pray in faith and believe, we can receive.

Let yourself be fully persuaded. Today.

Christian Singles share potluck dinner

Granite/Nameoki

By Maxine Green
931-6256

The Christian Singles met for a potluck dinner and fellowship at the First Baptist Church, 21st Street and Delmar Avenue.

Hassie Jones won the game prize.

Other members attending were: Mary Reed, Dorothy Watkins, Evelyn Miles, Olin Phillips, Helen Floyd, Dorothy Teller, Vickie Harper, Bertie Mayenburg, Gertrude Leary, Mavis Carter, Zane Miller, Elsie McMaisters, Gene Whicker, Hazel Meisenheimer, Margaret Hildreth, Vickie Elmore, Carrie Hart, Charlotte Smith, Beulah McKenna, Louise Acocks, Ray Jones, Ola White, Marie Cook, Lloyd Buckingham, John Buckingham, Myra Grote and Olive Joyner.

The next pot luck meeting will be at 6 p.m. May 16 at the church.

A Precious Moments Mother and Daughter Banquet was held Saturday afternoon at the Assembly of God Church, 24th Street and Grand Avenue.

A welcome was given by Dotie Edwards, and a prayer and blessing were given by Margaret Pithers.

"Bless the Lord Who Reigns in Beauty" was the chorus for the event, and the poem "Her Day" was printed on the back of the program given to each guest.

Several mothers were recognized, including the oldest mother and the mother who traveled the farthest of the 180 who attended.

A Precious Moments presentation was given by Valerie Stevens.

Recently our 9-year-old car broke down once again and I was feeling discouraged about yet another car repair bill. Then I noticed that the tulips were starting to peek up through the soil and I casually thought to myself, "Oh well, I can't be depressed when the tulips will be blooming."

After this incident, I more fully appreciated the value of advice given by Carol Oppenheim, a science consultant for several local preschools. When discussing the importance of nature studies for children, Oppenheim said, "What thing goes wrong later on in your life, if you have a love of nature, you have something real and valuable."

Oppenheim specializes in teaching preschool children to appreciate and understand science and nature. She was a preschool teacher for 22 years and now is a traveling teacher working in University City Public Schools, Temple Israel Nursery School in Creve Coeur, University Children's Center and Ladue Chapel Nursery School in Ladue. In addition to her work with schools, Oppenheim is a volunteer naturalist at Rockwood Reservation, where she conducts programs for parents and children.

Oppenheim has compiled her favorite nature activities for children in a book "Science is Fun!" The suggested activities in the book, which Oppenheim published herself, are for children ages 3 to 8. Although addressed to parents and teachers, the book is easy enough to read that older children could read and benefit from it by themselves.

What the book lacks in professional production is more than supplemented by the high quality content. The author's enthusiasm for the subject is apparent on every page.

Oppenheim's book has activities on window-sill gardening, at the piano.

Game prizes were won by Olive Joyner, Elizabeth McCoy, Ann Hordecky, Rose Macek, Edna McKay and Mary Fryntko.

Emylee Alford, club coordinator, presented a Central Bank ceramic birthday cup to members having birthdays in May. They were: Bernice Mercer, Lorraine Grimes, Arthur Lindner, Elsie Vance, Ellen Rickert and Hazel Scherrills.

Delores Dortch and Ethel Lerch served refreshments to the 150 members who attended.

Alford also announced there were still a few spaces available for the Canadian trip departing June 16. Those who wish details should call Maggie or Emylee at 451-6498.

Armed Forces Day, "Keeping America Strong," will be observed at the Charles M. Price Support Center from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Friday and from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday. The public is invited.

A Spring Bouquet Banquet was enjoyed May 4 at the Bethesda Baptist Church.

A welcome was given by Ann Abbott and prayer by Viola Hoffman.

The new W.M.U. officers introduced by Yvonne Cogges were: Ivy Sullivan, Mission Study chairman; Eva Barrow, president; Sharon Boyer, Mission support leader; and Ann Abbott, action chairman.

Twenty-two Golden Voices from Edwardsville entertained with singing, directed by Edrice Halford. A reading "Dear Lord, Guide Me" was given by Ivy Sullivan.

Several door prizes were given, and one woman gave her prize to a mother who has 10 children. Each guest received a program containing the poem "Wish," with a sunflower magnet on the front.

Sharon Boyer gave a word of thanks, and Eva Barrow gave the benediction.

Mr. and Mrs. William (Vinita) Windland of Jacksonville, Fla., visited Mrs. Windland's sister, Patricia Box and children Albert and Tiffany, and her mother, Emylee Alford. They are former Granite City residents.

St. Elizabeth Catholic Church, 2301 Pontoon Road, will be hold a Craft Fair from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturday. Proceeds will go to Drug Abuse Resistance Education (DARE). Those who wish more information should call 452-5892.

Scouts to sell barbecue

Boy Scout Troop 46, sponsored by the Long Lake Fire Department, will hold a chicken and bratwurst barbecue from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. May 20 at the Bellemore Shopping Center to help fund a trip to Camp Sunnen.

A music leadership banquet will be at the Pontoon Baptist Church at 7 p.m. May 22. It will be sponsored by the Association and State Music Department. Allen Mashburn, the Illinois State Association director, will be in charge.

Kay Andersen of Breckenridge Lane received word Sunday that her brother, Murer L. Vickers of Hannibal, Mo., had died of a heart attack.

There will be a parent-child dedication service Sunday evening at the Pontoon Baptist Church. Those who wish more

Nature can lead to family fun

ABCs for Parents

By Jane Cosby

Oppenheim has compiled her favorite nature activities for children in a book "Science is Fun!" The suggested activities in the book, which Oppenheim published herself, are for children ages 3 to 8. Although addressed to parents and teachers, the book is easy enough to read that older children could read and benefit from it by themselves.

What the book lacks in professional production is more than supplemented by the high quality content. The author's enthusiasm for the subject is apparent on every page.

Oppenheim's book has activities on window-sill gardening, cooking, conservation, small creatures and plants. But her approach to exploring and collecting probably is the easiest and most fun activity in the book.

Oppenheim advises parents to start a science record book or science calendar to note special things seen or found during their nature adventures. She recommends that parents decide before setting out on a nature walk what special things every one will look for, like how many different kinds of birds or red flowers are seen.

Shade-loving annuals are perfect for the north side of the house. Space bedding plants 8 to 12 inches apart; they'll fill in quickly.

Rubbing with a polishing compound can often remove minor scratches or stains from marble, but if there are deep pits or other blemishes, the polishing will probably have to be done by machine. While wax can restore the marble's luster, and will protect against staining.

The country look is in - and what better way to warm up the look than with a cozy rug? Best of all, they wash easily.

For safety's sake, look for power tools that have double electric insulation, designed to protect you even if your house wiring is faulty. Look for an identifying tag on the tool.

Insulation placed on the basement side of flooring can save heat. Be sure that vapor barrier faces the warm side. Caulk the space where the building rests on the foundation walls.

APA fund drive now underway

The Association for the Protection of Animals (APA) is now conducting its annual fund-raising drive.

The public is being encouraged to participate.

"The funds raised will help to feed and shelter the unwanted pets of this community and will assist us in fully re-opening our doors in the near future," said spokesman Margaret Fisk.

The APA is a non-profit organization solely funded by voluntary contributions by members and by concerned individuals.

The group maintains an animal shelter on Old Alton Road to care for cats and dogs until adoptive families are found.

"We are in need of volunteers not only for the shelter but in many capacities," said Fisk, "such as picking up supplies and food."

Currently, the APA has a need for unwanted dog houses, old pots and pans for food and water, and a workable electric can opener. "Ideas for fund-raising are always appreciated," Fisk said.

In recognition of National Pet Week, the APA is reminding the public that it has young kittens and puppies for adoption.

Those interested in helping raise funds may call Fisk at 931-3228 or Judy Gordon at 931-3228.

Adopt-a-Pet-Day planned

The Madison County Humane Society will hold a special Adopt-a-Pet Day, sponsored in part by the Purina Pet Parent Program, on Saturday, May 13, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at Sea World on Illinois 111 in Wood River.

Cat adoptions are $10, and dog adoptions are $27. Many of the homeless animals have been neutered or spayed, and all have been inoculated and wormed.

For further information on the many puppies and kittens available for adoption, persons may call the Humane Society at 656-4465.

Consumers to aid children's hospitals

Consumers will be reaching out to hospitalized children in their communities every time they buy eveready Super Heavy Duty batteries during May and June.

Eveready Super Heavy Duty batteries has pledged support of the Children's Miracle Network (CMN) Telethon June 3-4 for every purchase during the two-month promotion, for a total donation of up to $400,000. The telethon benefits 160 hospitals for children across the country.

Incentives include: a 20-cent manufacturer's coupon as part of a newspaper insert on June 3; a "bonus pack" with two free batteries in four-packs of AA batteries in four-packs of AA batteries; and a $1 cash refund by mail with proofs of purchase from any two packages of the brand or one SuperPack.

As part of its CMN sponsorship, Eveready also is "underwriting" a nationwide songwriting contest for children that will benefit the telethon.

The "Eveready Super Song Contest" invites children ages 7-12 to write the lyrics to a "get-well" song that will be sung to children in CMN hospitals for children across the country.

The winner will sing the song live on the nationally televised telethon with television/recording star and telethon co-host John Schneider.

For every contest entry, Eveready Super Heavy Duty batteries will help support the entrant's local CMN-affiliated hospital for children.

Early Childhood screening May 26

The Early Childhood programs at Blair School, Madison, and Prather School, Granite City, will hold screenings for new students from Friday, May 26, through Monday, June 5.

Children must be age 3 before Sept. 1 to be eligible for the program.

The preschool classes for 3- and 4-year-old children are planned to provide positive nurturing experiences to help them develop intellectually, socially and emotionally.

Educational experience has shown that not all children are ready for school at age 5 and these programs help children who are considered at "high risk" for later academic problems.

Screenings will be conducted at Blair School or Prather School by appointment only.

Thelma Lathrop can be called at the Prather School Early Childhood Office at 451-5825 to schedule an appointment.

Children from Venice, Madison and Granite City are eligible.

A birth certificate must be provided as proof of the child's age, and vision and hearing tests will be included in the screening.

Interviews with parents will be held from 8:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. daily during the screening dates.

Books benefit animals of area

Cast-off cats and homeless pups will benefit from the first annual Book Fair sponsored by the Madison County Humane Society. It will be held May 18-21 at Cottonwood Mall on Illinois 159 in Glen Carbon.

Over 75,000 books are offered, and the tables are restocked daily. Some first editions and signed first editions are offered. There is a $1 admission fee on May 18, preview night. Admission is free May 19-21.

The book fair hours are 6 to 9 p.m. Thursday, May 18; 1 to 9 p.m. Friday, May 19; 1 to 9 p.m. Saturday, May 20; and noon to 5 p.m. Sunday, May 21.

For information on homeless animals available for adoption, the Madison County Humane Society can be called at 656-4405.

Prostate screening done for 70

Seventy area residents attended free prostate screening for men over the age of 50 as part of cancer-awareness activities at St. Elizabeth Medical Center.

"I'm very satisfied with the turnout," said Kathy Haarmann, screening coordinator. "I thank everyone who helped out. They did a wonderful job."

"Cancer of the prostate is the third most common cause of death among men between 55 and 74, and the second leading cause in men over 75.

"The American Cancer Society predicts there will be 28,500 deaths due to prostate cancer this year. Early diagnosis is crucial for effective therapy and cure."

THE LAW AND YOU

BY RICK REED
Attorney At Law

Let's assume that a man and woman are divorced and that the mother obtains custody of the two children from the marriage. The father in this hypothetical case is ordered to pay $300.00 per month in child support at the time of the dissolution of marriage. How can the father reduce his child support obligation in the event he becomes unemployed?

Under Illinois law a judgment of dissolution which provides for child support normally is only modified by filing a motion for modification and showing a substantial change in circumstances. Generally speaking, a parent paying support can only modify his obligation for installments coming due after the filing of the motion for modification. Illinois courts have continued to hold that past due child support payments are a vested right, and the parent paying support cannot modify child support which has already accrued.

In one recent case, the father was ordered to pay child support, but he became disabled shortly after the divorce. He filed a petition to modify his child support obligation two years after he became disabled, and the trial court terminated his child support retroactively for the period of time he was disabled. During his disability, he had no income.

The Illinois Department of Public Aid appealed this decision on behalf of the mother and argued that the trial court should not have retroactively modified the ex-husband's child support obligation. The issue on appeal was whether or not a trial court may provide for a reduction in child support retroactive to the time the petitioner sought for a modification.

The Appellate Court held that the trial court could not terminate the father's child support obligation retroactively. The Court recognized the father's hardship based on his disability, but the case was returned to the trial court for the purposes of computing the father's arrearage in this case. This case reemphasizes the fact that a supporting parent should return to court immediately to reduce or terminate child support if that parent has a substantial reduction in income.

MARS seeks operators

SCOTT AIR FORCE BASE — If you are an amateur radio operator, you can become part of the Air Force, Army or Navy-Marine Corps worldwide communications system.

Amateur radio operators are invited to join the Military Affiliate Radio System (MARS), a Department of Defense directed organization that bridges the gap between the military services and the civilian community.

MARS volunteer affiliates have continuously been available to provide communications support for national emergencies, airplane crashes, earthquakes, hurricanes and sea rescues — sometimes being the only means of communications.

"The civilian volunteer affiliate is the backbone of MARS — literally the glue that holds MARS together," said Maj. Gen. James S. Cassidy Jr., Air Force Communications Command commander.

MARS showed its worth 10 times over during the Vietnam war when the system was used to relay hundreds of thousands of messages to and from loved ones across the seas, said Maj. Gen. William E. Overacker, chief of staff for the Military Airlift Command.

He related the story of a woman who approached him at an amateur radio convention. "I went around (the convention) in uniform and a lady stopped me and said, 'General, I just want to tell you that I had a son in Vietnam and I also had a husband in Vietnam who did not come back. The one thing I will remember is the fact that MARS provided me the link to my husband until the day before he was killed in battle in Vietnam.'"

"...In case after case," said Gen. Overacker, "the vital communications link for emergencies, humanitarian efforts, indeed for military communications has occurred through the MARS program."

MARS affiliates can increase their communications skills and capabilities, operate on specially assigned military radio frequencies in voice, teletype, continuous wave or packet modes and receive training on operating procedures.

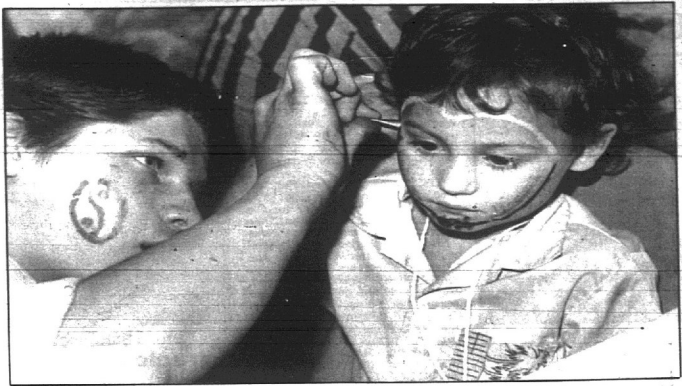

After completing training and actively participating for six months, Air Force MARS affiliates can participate in the MARS Excess/Surplus Equipment program, which allows equipment to be issued, when available, to qualified affiliates, although requirements vary within each service.

"To join, you only need to meet four requirements: You must be 14 years of age or older; be a U.S. citizen; possess a valid amateur radio license issued by the Federal Communications Commission; and be able to operate on two MARS high frequency stations," a spokesman said.

"To maintain your affiliation, you are only required to participate 12 hours each quarter with six of those hours being in the primary MARS assignment."

To obtain an application package to become a MARS affiliate, persons may send a letter to: Chief, U.S. Air Force MARS, HQ AFCC/DOOC, Scott AFB, Ill. 62225-4001 or Chief, Army MARS, HQ U.S. Army Information Systems Command, Attn: ASOP-0A, Fort Huachuca, Ariz. 85613-5000 or Chief, Navy-Marine Corps MARS, Naval Communication Unit, Washington, D.C. 20397-5161.

YOU AND YOUR RETIREMENT

By Barbara Schubert
Admissions Director
Foxes Grove Retirement Community

Happy Mother's Day

That's my message to all you wonderful Moms out there. But I also want to say something to your wonderful children:

Make Your Mom The Star

Isn't it time for your Mother to become more than just your Mother. Isn't it time for her to become her own star?

I see it every day here at Foxes Grove. People who shine, like stars, among their many friends here in the community.

There couldn't be a better Mother's Day gift than to treat your Mom to a trip to a Life-Care community this week. A place where her star will shine!

How do you become a star?

You are a star when you are surrounded by friends with mutual interests.

You are a star when you're busy with activities and trips.

You are a star when you're enrolling in a class — or creating your own darling hat at our annual Mad Hatter's social on Easter Monday.

Every Day Will Shine

You become a star by receiving a warm smile each morning from your friendly neighbors. Neighbors who are truly glad to stop and chat or meet you for lunch later in our sunny dining room.

You become a star by knowing that you did one little thing yesterday that made someone else's day a little happier.

Does your Mother enjoy cards? Help her find a place where she is always welcome to join a game of bridge or rummy or pinocle. Or any of her favorite activities. A place where she doesn't have to go out in bad weather just to have a little fun.

Through all of your life, your Mother has made you and others in your family the star.

Isn't it time you help her get away from the needless responsibility of caring for a house that is too large and too old?

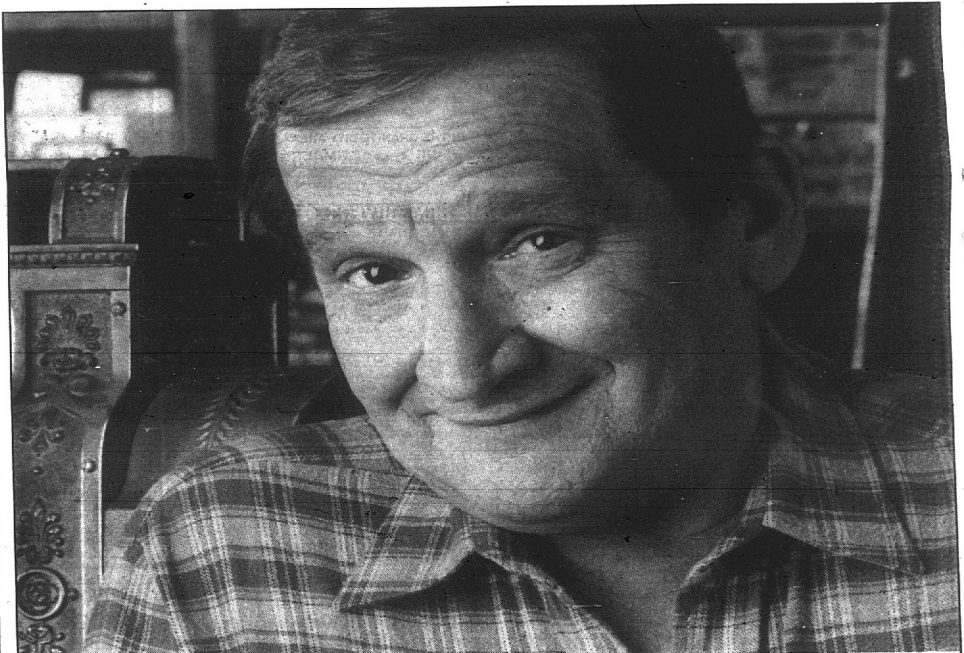

You don't want her to become so independent that she doesn't need you anymore. But that could never happen. Just as you will always need her.

B.E. Hohl

Hohl

B.E. Hohl, 83, of Belleville, a longtime Madison County automobile dealer and insurance official, died at 11:10 p.m. Monday, May 8, 1989, at Jewish Hospital, St. Louis, after a long illness.

Mr. Hohl helped establish the Tri-County Area Chamber of Commerce and was its charter president, serving in that office in 1941 through 1944. He operated the B.E. Hohl Ford, Mercury and Lincoln auto dealership for more than 50 years, selling it in 1985, when it became Koetting Ford.

He was chairman of the St. Louis Ford Dealers Advertising Council from 1960 to 1982.

At the time of his death, Mr. Hohl was chairman emeritus and president emeritus of the Madison Mutual Insurance Co., Edwardsville, having held the offices of president and then chairman for many years. He was active in the Missouri Athletic Club.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Lenore C. Hohl, of Belleville.

Private funeral services were held Wednesday in Belleville, with burial following at Valhalla Gardens of Memories in Belleville.

Kurtus Funeral Home in Belleville handled arrangements. Memorials may be given, based on the donor's choice.

Hudgens

Isabelle M. (Conklin) Hudgens, 79, of Granite City was pronounced dead at 9:50 p.m. Wednesday, May 10, 1989, at the home of her daughter, in Collinsville, by Madison County Deputy Coroner Randall Irwin.

Mrs. Hudgens had been ill for 2 1/2 years.

She was born in Lebanon, Ill., and had lived in Granite City for 65 years.

She retired from the Lenox Pulp Co. in St. Louis in 1975 after 15 years.

She was of the Protestant faith and was active in the Anchorage Senior Citizens and was a member of the American Association of Retired Persons.

Her husband, Charles Hudgens, died in 1945.

She is survived by two daughters, Dorothy Buncie of Collinsville and Julia Portell of Granite City; one sister, Pauline Hawes of Bellingham, Wash.; 11 grandchildren; 21 great-grandchildren; and one great-great-grandchild.

Funeral services are pending at Irwin Chapel for Funerals, 2801 Madison Ave., 931-8000.

Lopez

Antonia G. (Rosales) Lopez, 89, of Fairmont City died at 9:12 a.m. Wednesday, May 10, 1989, at her home, where she had been under a doctor's care. She was pronounced dead by a deputy coroner of St. Clair County.

Mrs. Lopez was born Feb. 22, 1900, in Zamora, Mexico, and resided in Fairmont City for the last 35 years. Prior to that, she resided in St. Louis.

She was preceded in death April 25, 1974, by her husband, Joe Lopez Sr. Survivors include seven sons, Joseph I. Lopez of Kirkwood, Jesse, Louis and Joseph L. Lopez Jr., all of St. Louis; Frank Lopez of Caseyville; Raymond Lopez of Jennings, Mo.; and Manuel M. Lopez of Granite City; a daughter, Mrs. Joseph (Margaret) Arguello of Fairmont City; 31 grandchildren, 41 great-grandchildren and one great-great-grandchild.

Visitation is planned today from 3 p.m. to 9 p.m. at Thomas Memorial Mortuary, 2205 Pontoon Road, Granite City, with a Rosary at 7 p.m. A 10 a.m. funeral service will be held Friday at Holy Rosary Catholic Church, 2716 N. 42nd St. in Fairmont City, with the Rev. Jim Buenter officiating. Burial will be at St. Adalbert's Cemetery in Fairmont City. The family has requested memorials of Masses or the donor's choice.

Miller

Louise S. Miller, 85, died at 6:05 p.m. Wednesday, May 10, 1989, at St. Elizabeth Medical Center where she had been a patient for 10 days. She had lived at The Colonades for seven years.

She was born in Czechoslovakia and moved to Granite City at the age of 3. She was of the Protestant faith.

Mrs. Miller is survived by one son, Gene Miller of Granite City; one daughter, Mrs. Robert (Helen) Hildebrand of Granite City; five grandchildren; and two great-grandchildren.

Her body is being donated to the Washington University School of Medicine.

Rafferty

John "Jack" Rafferty, 72, of Granite City died at 9:05 a.m. Wednesday, May 10, 1989, at Barnes Hospital in St. Louis. He had been hospitalized three weeks.

Mr. Rafferty was born July 24, 1916, in St. Louis and resided in Granite City one year. He was a member of St. Elizabeth Catholic Church.

Survivors include his wife, Dorothy (Malench) Rafferty of Granite City; two sisters, Catherine Doyle of St. Louis and Margaret Rafferty of New York City; and four brothers Thomas, Patrick and Bernard Rafferty, all of St. Louis, and Bill Rafferty of California.

Visitation is planned Friday from 4 p.m. to 8 p.m. at Irwin Chapel for Funerals, 2801 Madison Ave. A 10 a.m. funeral service will be held Saturday at St. Elizabeth Catholic Church, 2300 Pontoon Road, with the Rev. Francis Tebagana officiating. Burial will be at Calvary Cemetery in Edwardsville. Memorials of Masses have been requested.

Stella Barunica

Barunica

Stella F. (Patrick) Barunica, 75, of Granite City died at 5:45 p.m. Tuesday, May 9, 1989, at St. Elizabeth Medical Center, where she had been hospitalized one day after a one-month illness.

Mrs. Barunica was born Feb. 14, 1914, in Madison and was a lifetime resident of the Quad City area. She retired in 1979 from Chile's Catering Co., where she was a cook. She was a member of Holy Family Catholic Church.

She was preceded in death Aug. 9, 1984, by her husband, Walter Barunica.

Survivors include a son, Thomas Barunica, and a daughter, Mrs. Robert (Patricia) LaRue, both of Granite City; three brothers, Edward Patrick and Gene Patrick, both of St. Louis, and Joe Patrick of Columbia, Mo.; three sisters, Victoria Benedict of Bernslake, Canada, and Eva Patrick and Mary Goodyear, both of St. Louis; six grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Visitation will be held from 5 p.m. to 8 p.m. today at Irwin Chapel for Funerals, 2801 Madison Ave. A 9 a.m. funeral service will be held Friday at Holy Family Catholic Church, 2900 Washington Ave. Burial will be at Calvary Cemetery in Edwardsville. Memorials have been requested for Holy Family Church.

New Salem Church to honor mothers

The mission of New Salem Baptist Church, 1349 Klein Ave., Venice, will be to honor mothers of the church at 5 p.m. Sunday.

The church will honor the oldest and the youngest mother and others.

On May 21, the church will host a program at 4 p.m. on behalf of the NAACP. Proceeds will go for church membership in the NAACP. The speaker will be the Rev. Harold Wilson, president of the Madison and Venice Branch of the NAACP.

On May 28, the church members may attend services at the Southern Missionary Baptist Church in East St. Louis to celebrate the anniversary of the Rev. Jerome Jackson. The mass choir will sing. The Rev. Henry Williams will preach.

•Knight

before. That was (Ron) Veizer. We had our disagreements, you know, but we did clear some homicides and other cases," Knight said.

Veizer was police chief for 18 years until retiring in May 1985. He assigned Knight to the detective division and also appointed him in 1975 to work with the Major Case Squad of Greater St. Louis.

Knight plans to reinstitute a special drug team in the near future, he said. The two-man narcotics team will concentrate its efforts on drug abuse problems.

A similar program proved effective a few years ago, but was halted primarily due to lack of manpower and money, he said.

"We've got some (drug) problems at the high school, but no more than any other high school around. You have to step on them once in a while," he said.

"You'll never clean up all the drugs in Granite City or all the drugs in the world," Knight said.

Knight is a realist. He's highly motivated to action and definitely "not a quiet, sit-and-wait kind of person."

"We're still actively pursuing the Sheila Hunt case and we're not planning to rest until the drug case is cleared up," he said Tuesday.

Hunt was found strangled in her burning Granite City home in the early morning hours of April 29. No one has been charged in the case, so far.

Knight has been with the department for 19 years. He's spent a hefty portion of his law enforcement career in the investigative field and is widely acknowledged as one of the top detectives in southern Illinois.

His expertise has played a major part in solving many local investigations over the past 15 years. He has headed the department's Administrative Services Division the past year.

Knight has been performing a dual role, serving with both the Granite City department and the Major Case Squad of Greater St. Louis, for nearly 14 years. With the squad, he has worked on the most difficult and demanding murder investigations assigned to the premier task force.

He has been a deputy commander of the Major Case Squad since 1986 and has headed investigative units in five murder cases, culminating in the arrest of suspects in three of the five cases.

Knight has worked as an arson investigator and with the Metropolitan Law Enforcement Group of Southwestern Illinois.

One of his first assignments as chief was assigning additional Granite City officers to the Major Case Squad for special training.

Detectives Curt Walkenbach and Don Petrillo, Sgt. Dave Ruebhausen and Sgt. Jeff Parker were assigned to the squad and are now in training sessions.

"You never send them out on a case all at once. Maybe one or two officers at a time when requested," he said.

Granite City will have a large pool of investigators available to the Major Case Squad of Greater St. Louis when the training session ends, a move that also adds depth and experience to the local police force.

Five local officers already are qualified for the Case Squad.

Det. Sgt. Rich Schardan has been on the squad for a number of years. Also assigned are Detectives Ned Tapp, Mike Gach and Ron Landman, who has worked several cases, and Patrolman Mike Chasich.

Membership on the Major Case Squad works as a two-way street, providing a variety of experience in investigative work and ultimately benefiting an individual officer's community, Knight said.

Patrolman Terry May, a former detective, will be the department's new computer coordinator and crime prevention officer, replacing Sgt. Dave Polivick in the post, Knight said.

In addition to the four captains, Lengyel, Gerald Pinkerton, Glenn Wright and Kip Fomero, the department consists of three lieutenants, 11 sergeants and 33 patrolmen.

Other than personnel also are on the new chief's mind. He plans to ask for some capital improvements around the police building, he said.

Aspects other than personnel also are on the new chief's mind. He plans to ask for some capital improvements around the police building, he said.

"This building is 10 years old and lots of things need doing," Knight said, motioning around and sounding like a typical administrator.

It was unusual to see Knight sitting in an office behind a big desk; he's usually on the move. But he looked as if he belonged there.

regional school trustees. One party, not identified publicly, was continually expressed interest in the Logan Annex project since last fall.

During the same time span, 4th Ward Alderman Dan Farney suggested that the school district and city work together to transform the building into a youth center and the larger Logan

School into a senior citizen center.

The proposal for Logan Annex was rejected and nothing further developed regarding Logan School.

Farney said the school district has not utilized the Annex building in about 20 years except for a pre-school program that was moved to Wilson School in 1981.

Shortly after that, until early 1984, the Logan Annex was used by the Madison County Economic Opportunity Commission, where a Head Start instructional program was operated.

Logan said the group began several projects on the building, replacing the roof and doing some plumbing work. The EOC was disbanded in 1984 following a financial scandal.

ANGER FOLLOWS DENIAL
Why me, the patient asks himself. After the dental phase of a terminal illness, the patient usually looks around and tries to discern why this terrible fate is happening to him and not someone else. When he is unable to arrive at a logical answer to his question, he becomes angry. In contrast to the stage of denial, this phase of anger is very difficult for the family and treating physician to deal with because it is an unfocused anger. The anger can be directed at the physician, the family, the hospital, or at everything or nothing in general. The reason that the anger is unfocused is that the patient's whole world has been turned upside down. All of his plans and dreams have now remain unfulfilled. He tends to lash out those whose hopes and dreams are still alive and at those who care the most, but who are unable to help him conquer his fatal illness. Those who have everything in life, or who had the most control over their life prior to their illness, may be the most angry when they learn of their impending death. Those with great worldly goods now realize that all of the things that they have valued greatly will soon be taken from them and those who have had a large measure of control over their destiny suddenly have no control over the future. Very religious people may display great anger at God and everything around them upon learning they have a fatal illness. This anger does not indicate a lack of love of God, but rather a feeling that after living by his word all of their lives they suddenly feel betrayed by their maker. This feeling of betrayal will vanish. The family must look beyond the anger itself to its underlying cause. Don't take your loved one's anger personally, it has little or nothing to do with its target. Understanding, not judgment is what your loved one needs. Remember, the release of expressing that anger will help him toward a better acceptance of his inevitable death.

During the training, students received instruction in drill and ceremonies, weapons, map reading, tactics, military courtesy and justice, first aid and Army history and traditions.

Tourville is the son of Kenneth S. and Kathryn W. Tourville of 34 Georgetown Drive, Pontoon Beach.

Army Cinema Van coming May 19 to Madison High

The U.S. Army Cinema Van, a special traveling exhibit from Washington, will visit Madison High School on Friday, May 19, according to Sgt. Garrett Fuller of the Army Recruiting Station, 3075 Nameoki Road.

Fuller will be available during the visit to answer students' questions about the van.

He describes the presentation as "a special mobile theater of fast paced, multi-imaged shows of particular interest to high school students."

Among the shows available through the van are:

"Army — Force of the Future," a presentation featuring today's high tech Army;

"In Step With America," an overview of the Army's contributions to the development of the nation; "Our Federal Government," a look at the three-step process of government; "Language — Ours and Theirs," the evolution of the English language; and "It's Worth It," a program dealing with mathematics and science.

The Cinema Van is escorted by a two-soldier team from the U.S. Army Recruiting Support Command located at Cameron Station, Va.

The van's local appearance is sponsored by the Granite City Army Recruiting Station in cooperation with school officials.

Young people who can meet the Army's physical and aptitude standards are invited to call Fuller at 876-5950 to learn more about Army opportunities.

The sergeant has information about the GI Bill plus the Army College Fund, through which a recruit can accumulate as much as $25,200 toward future college expenses, he said.

Fuller also has "details about cash bonuses, educational aid, and skill training, with hands-on experience a way of building a career by doing an out-of-the-ordinary job with challenge, travel and adventure," he said.

Motorcycle accidents contribute to numbers

The following article is by Secretary of State Jim Edgar.

According to the latest Department of Transportation statistics, 182 motorcyclists were killed on Illinois roads last year. Approximately 50 percent of those fatalities were the result of accidents involving other vehicles.

The motorcycle riding season is starting and car and truck drivers are once again sharing the road with motorcyclists. Follow these safety tips when near a motorcycle in traffic:

1. Never crowd a motorcycle. Allow more distance than when following a car. If a cyclist must stop quickly and you are following too closely, you may hit him or cause him to lose his balance.

2. Do not pass a motorcycle in the lane it is using. Motorcyclists are entitled to use the full width of a traffic lane. They constantly change positions within the lane to see more clearly and to avoid potholes and other obstructions.

Before turning in front of a motorcycle that has its turn signal on, be sure the rider is turning and not coming straight ahead. Turn signals do not turn off automatically on most motorcycles, and the rider may have forgotten to turn the signal off after a previous turn.

4. If you are following a motorcycle, allow more distance when approaching a railroad track. When a crossing is rough or the tracks cross the road at an angle, the rider will have to slow down and will need room to maneuver.

An R-30 level usually is fine in your home's attic, and if your home's basement or crawl space is unheated, an R-19 level is good for its ceiling. Heating and air-conditioning ducts, if already enclosed in well-insulated portions of your house, generally require no insulation; otherwise, insulate them for increased savings.

And don't forget an insulation blanket for your water heater. After home heating and cooling, water heating is generally the homeowner's largest energy expense.

By having your home properly insulated, you will see how increased energy savings and a more comfortable home can go hand-in-hand.

Cash in with insulation

Proper home insulation allows consumers to enjoy year-round comfort while keeping energy costs under control, Union Electric Co. points out.

On the average, about 60 percent of the homeowner's energy bill goes for heating and cooling. By adding the proper amount of insulation to your home, you may cut these costs by up to half, Union Electric says.

Remember that the higher the insulation's resistance, or "R" value, the lower your losses will be in terms of heating and cooling dollars.

Your home's attic and basement are two essential areas for insulation. The walls should be considered also, but because insulation here is more difficult to install, you will need to weigh the extra costs against your expected energy savings. An insulation contractor can give more information on this trade-off.

American Steel

Hard times at end for many workers

By Andy Siering
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — Workers in communist countries celebrate May 1 — May Day — as the occasion of their liberation from tyrannical capitalism.

But for Alvin Dixon of Eagle Park, May Day 1989 was the day that the interplay of supply and demand — the foundation of the capitalist system — meant he could return to steady work after 6½ years of struggling to provide for his family.

Dixon, 43, is one of about 70 workers recalled so far to work at American Steel Foundries. A total of about 250 will be recalled by the end of June, said Works Manager Bill Donovan.

Dixon was lying in bed April 16 when the youngest of his two sons (ages 11 and 7) came running into the bedroom to tell him American Steel was on the phone.

"I said, 'Quit joking,'" Dixon recalled.

"No, Daddy," his son said. "I'm not joking."

He wasn't. The personnel department was on the line to set up a physical exam so Dixon could return to work.

He passed the physical, and at 6:30 a.m. on May Day, Dixon walked through the plant's main gate with a big smile on his face.

Said he, "It's a big relief to know you're gonna have a paycheck coming to take care of your family. It's kind of hard when your kids want something and you can't get it for them."

Partial production at the 95-year-old manufacturer of railroad trucks and undercarriages is scheduled to resume in early June, Donovan said.

"We've been calling back a few workers at a time," the works manager said.

About 95 percent of the 250 to be recalled will be former workers like Dixon, Donovan said.

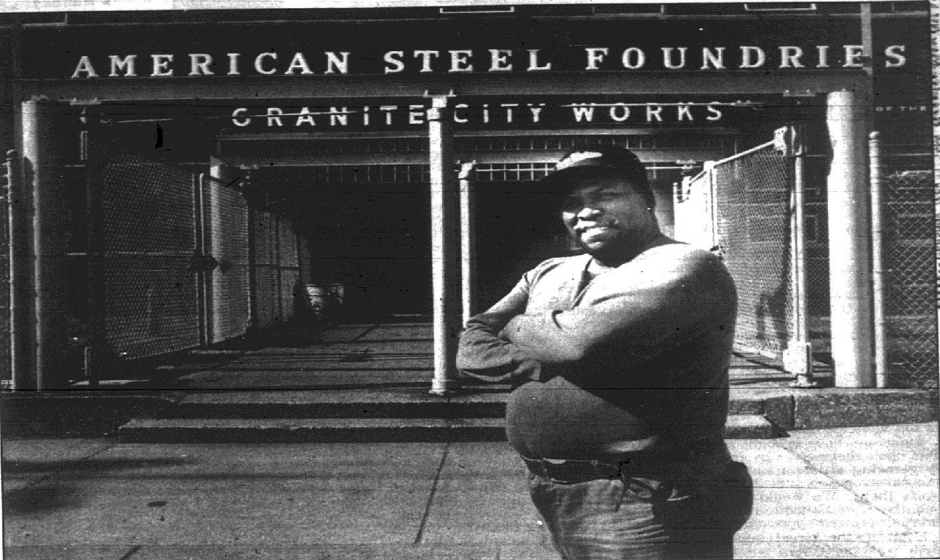

Dixon started working at American Steel in 1966, at age 19, and worked there right up until Nov. 28, 1982. That's the date American Steel Foundries, a subsidiary of AMSTED Industries Inc. of Chicago, closed the Granite City plant.

ASF cited a glutted market and low demand for new railroad cars, partly because of railway mergers and partly because of the overall recession.

The plant makes side frames and bolsters for the wheel assemblies of freight cars. At its peak, in 1979, it produced more than 25,000 car sets and employed 1,750 people.

Dixon told retraining courses and found another job, but that company moved its operation after one year — right after his wife, Fannie, bore their second child.

Since then, Dixon has made ends meet by working in construction and by working part-time as a substitute janitor at Venice High School.

ALVIN DIXON is one of several dozen American Steel workers recalled recently. The plant, which had been closed since November 1982, will be in production by the end of June and will employ about 250 persons.

It was hard times for the Dixon family. He said his wife went to work as a school cook while he sat around the hiring hall, hoping for work. He said some union business agents practiced favoritism in sending out workers.

"You'd be sitting at the hall, and a call would come in. You're sitting right there, but the B.A. would call a friend of his at home and send him out."

"Some months I didn't work at all — just enough to keep my unemployment (compensation) going. It was rough out there, I'll tell anybody!"

Now Dixon is back at work at the hot, dirty job of being a welder and cutter. But he couldn't be happier.

Well, he could be a little happier.

"I'll be glad when my co-workers come back."

There are 960 names on the seniority list, said Personnel Manager Gwen Pitchford. Workers will be recalled on the basis of job seniority, not plant-wide seniority. The company has a master agreement with the four unions that represent workers.

The unions are the United Steelworkers of America, the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, the International Brotherhood of Machinists and Aerospace Workers and the Patternmakers' union.

Workers must pass physical examinations before returning to work.

"This is something that could last through 1993," said Works

Manager Bill Donovan back in '82, when the last 450 workers were laid off at American Steel Foundries' Granite City plant.

About 1,100 had been laid off previously, as a glut of railroad cars and a poor overall economy had caused the rail industry to stagnate.

Mergers and deregulation meant the railroads could operate more efficiently, with fewer cars, analysts said. In 1982, only 18,736 cars were produced nationwide, and there was a surplus of 300,000 cars.

A skeleton crew of about 35 maintenance and office workers has kept watch over the silent 1-million-square-foot plant ever since. At one time, it was the largest producer of railroad "trucks" in the free world.

In '82 the plant had just finished installing a new molding floor. Workers have been in the process of "debugging" the new facility since last July, when ASF began contemplating reopening the plant, Donovan said.

That facility will be the only one in production for the time being unless the market improves even further, Donovan said.

It's been a long wait, during which the market for rolling stock has improved as a result of the resurgence of the whole economy. As consumers started buying new automobiles and appliances and such, and as the existing rolling stock wore out, the market for railroad cars to ship them improved.

But that is not the main reason for the plant's reopening. Back in February, ASF President Norman Berg said the actual reopening decision was the result of work-rule changes negotiated with the unions and a lower electrical rate negotiated with Illinois Power Co.

Donovan would not discuss specifics recently: "All I can say is, we were able to get a satisfactory rate with the power company and more flexibility in work rules." About two-thirds of the workers are represented by the steelworkers' union.

When the foundry closed, there were six companies making frames and bolsters. Now there are three, including American Steel.

Berg said in February that government had done its share in making the reopening possible. The foundry is an enterprise zone that gives companies within it special tax breaks.

Mayor Von Dee Cruse recalled in February that he and Economic Director Alan Orthals had traveled to ASF's Chicago headquarters last year. Cruse said he hadn't expected much but the encouraging things he heard there lifted his spirits.

"When we left the office, on the 44th floor, I told Alan, 'We don't need to take the elevator. I can jump right out the window and float down. I feel so high.'"

The plant will have an annual payroll of about $5 million, at least some of which will be spent in this area and deposited in area banks. Orthals has sent press clippings to that effect to Sam Walton, owner of the Wal-Mart chain. The city is trying to attract a Wal-Mart store to the downtown area.

Coupled with Granite City Steel's new continuous caster, the reopening of American Steel could be a sign that things are turning around for Granite City.

As Alvin Dixon said, "It's a big relief."

American Steel plant has long history

American Steel Foundries of Granite City actually had its origins in St. Louis, said Schickel, Harrison and Howard Iron Co., according to a brief history prepared by the company.

In 1892, "an Irishman named McRoberts poured molten steel into green sand before the eyes of frightened onlookers. It was the first time green sand molds had been used to make steel castings, and it was found that the flexible nature of green sand made possible the casting of complicated shapes."

Edward F. Golda, general manager of the St. Louis company, approached a friend also in the railroad business, R. Wells of St. Louis, and proposed that Wells finance a new cast-steel foundry to exploit the new technology. American Steel Foundry Co. was incorporated April 5, 1894.

The plant was broken on a 24-acre site June 15.

The first buildings were a main foundry measuring 300 feet by 400 feet and two 40-foot lean-tos. The foundry was equipped with two overhead cranes, built from the 1890s Chicago World's Fair. The company's earliest products were railroad bolsters and couplers.

Granite City, founded in 1896, was so new then and rooming facilities were scarce that the first workers lived in a "hotel" on the plant grounds, sleeping in shifts and being called out in the middle of the night to "save a heat."

In 1902, the company merged with eight other foundries. Granite City was the largest. The men who formed the group were some of the same people who had formed U.S. Steel Corp. the year before.

In 1910, one of the first product engineering laboratories was set up on the plant grounds. Freight cars were hoisted to the top of an inclined track and observed as they tumbled down hill.

During World War I the plant produced ingots from which were forged shell casings at another ASF plant. The company produced more than one million shells.

During World War II, the plant again shifted part of its production capacity to the war effort and made cast armor parts for tanks.

In 1979, the plant employed some 1,750 people and produced 25,000 car sets. It was said to be the largest plant of its type in the free world.

On Nov. 28, 1982, it closed.

On Feb. 22, 1989, company officials announced that it would reopen.

On May 1, 1989, Alvin Dixon at Eagle Park returned to work. More would follow him.

Pau Simon, people's choice, was Daley's darling, too, in '72

The odds are said to be about 50-50 that James B. Thompson will seek an unprecedented fifth term as governor of Illinois next year. He has not yet revealed his 1990 plans.

But let's play "What if?" What if Pau Simon had not been elected in the 1972 Democratic primary election?

If Simon had been the incumbent governor in 1976, seeking re-election, would Thompson have been able to launch his tenure of 14 years (three four-year terms and a two-year term)?

SIMON WAS AND IS CLOSE to many Quad Cities and Madison Countians because he represented this community and county in the General Assembly for 14 years, eight in the House and six in the Senate.

In November 1968, Illinois voters elected a wounded war hero, Richard B. Ogilvie, as their governor. He was a Republican and citizens simultaneously chose Democrat Simon as their lieutenant governor.

Simon agreed not to keep Ogilvie a "prisoner" in the state; Ogilvie could go on vacation without Simon suddenly vetoing a lot of legislation or changing appointive officials.

IN RETURN, Ogilvie allowed Simon to have a useful and busy four years; Simon served as the state's ombudsman, solving problems by linking people with the agencies that could meet their needs.

It was inevitable that, despite their cooperation, the two would collide for governor in 1972. But Ogilvie was weakened by the fact that he had signed a law creating the Illinois income tax.

Democrat Dan Walker not only exploited this but also argued that the law would collide for governor in 1972. But Ogilvie was weakened by the fact that he had signed a law creating the Illinois income tax.

"WALKING DAN" Walker was not a good governor; Thompson beat him in 1976 as well as winning in 1978, 1982 and 1986, the last two times defeating Adlai Stevenson III.

It was Stevenson's retirement as a U.S. senator in 1980 that opened the door for Alan Dixon to become governor.

Dixon was re-elected in 1986 and now holds No. 3 rank in the 100-member Senate; Simon ran unsuccessfully for the presidency in 1988 and will try for a second

Senate term next year.

****

NOW THAT RICHARD DALEY has been elected mayor of Chicago in 1989, thoughts go back to his late father, Richard Daley, not only mayor of the city of broad shoulders, but also the most powerful Illinois Democrat.

Simon received the blessing of both Mayor Daley and the Illinois State Democratic Central Committee to run for governor. He was not a machine insider, just as he had not been an insider in Madison County politics, but they respected his integrity and his vote-getting prowess.

Some say Simon was diminished in voters' eyes because — although he was a "straight arrow" himself — he accepted the political support of Daley and others who were not as highly regarded. I disagree; I think it was more a case of Walker waging a dirty, misleading and effective campaign.

SIMON'S CAMPAIGN booklet featured a big photograph of himself with Eleanor Roosevelt, widow of President Franklin D. Roosevelt, and Adlai Stevenson Jr., governor of Illinois in 1949-52 and Democrats' 1952 and 1956 presidential nominees.

It also featured a picture of Simon with one of his heroes, U.S. Sen. Paul H. Douglas of Illinois.

While we are name-dropping, let's also mention that it included a photograph of Simon and Pres. John F. Kennedy.

It traced Simon's career from a crusading newspaper editor/publisher in Madison County in 1948 to the U.S. Army in 1951, to the Illinois House in 1955 and to the Illinois Senate in 1963.

After six years there, his four years as lieutenant governor and two years as a college professor, he became a congressman in 1974.

"A FIGHTER for clean government," the Chicago Sun-Times was quoted as saying about Simon. The booklet also cited comments by:

Illinois State Register: "A breath of fresh air."

Sen. Douglas: "He has always fought for the people. Paul Simon is one of the most remarkable and most capable men in Illinois politics in many years."

Champaign-Urbana Courier: "Alert, articulate and aggressive."

Stevenson III: "Paul Simon has had the courage to stand up for the people. He has the integrity that inspires trust and the experience in government necessary to get results. HE'll make a great governor."

IT MIGHT HAVE BEEN but wasn't and probably won't ever be. But I think Simon would have been good for Illinois if elected in 1972.

Because the two parties had split the top two offices in 1968, the Legislature acted to prevent it from happening again. A two-name ballot square resulted, but it backfired in 1986.

That year, a Lyndon LaRouche follower was nominated as Adlai Stevenson III's running mate, prompting Stevenson to abandon the Democratic gubernatorial nomination and instead form the losing Solidarity Party.

A BIT OF TRIVIA may be of interest: If Simon had been elected governor, who would have been lieutenant governor?

As a clue, the rest of the ticket included Roman Fucinski for senator, Michael Howlett for secretary of state, Thomas Lyons for attorney general and Dean Barringer for state comptroller.

The lieutenant governor nominee? Your time is up.

It was Neil Hartigan, the current attorney general. And he was elected as part of a Walker-Hartigan ballot team — becoming America's youngest lieutenant governor.

Hartigan, who operates a major regional office in Granite City, hopes to be the Democratic nominee for governor if Jim Thompson tries to become a five-termier in 1990.

Street needs can be met

Our article May 10 on the Granite City Street Department outlined in detail the opinions of Superintendent Mac Warfield, why he feels streets haven't been fixed at the proper pace.

His task is not easy and we sympathize with him.

But we feel that some of the operational problems stem from the absence of a systematic plan of action, from a lack of cooperation among several municipal officials, and by individual attempts to build political power by favoring some neighborhoods over others at the expense of orderly citywide services.

Despite the fact that there is not enough modern, functioning equipment in the street department, the council has not budgeted for what it needs. As a result, several rush requests for used equipment have been received and authorized, but still the city has wound up with a lot of old vehicles that don't work.

Aldermen have brought some of this upon themselves by frequently glancing at last-minute departmental proposals and then acting upon them. We would prefer to see the City Council insist on a more organized approach.

Even if the street superintendent was perfection personified, the existing system of divided power is fatally flawed. The city needs no dictator and no "rubber stamp" council, but room must be found for some kind of reasonable middle ground.

As we have said, as the mayor has said, as aldermen have said, and even as Mr. Warfield has said, this coordination might be possible if the city created a public works department led by an able public works director.

Funds must be found for street projects before, as the superintendent says, "there isn't any street left" at a number of sites.

Recently the city has repaired streets, using a $50,000 per ward spending practice. That is not the answer. If aldermen, the mayor and the street chief were to show their ability to cooperate, the Department of Transportation would likely do the same and might be more willing to join the city in needed major projects. For example, if the city were willing to spend $100,000 on Madison Avenue, the state might be willing to give up to $200,000 more on shared-cost projects.

Valid street maintenance and paving procedures can and should be followed; it is unsound to place overlays on surfaces that have an insufficient base.

Short-range "improvements" that soon deteriorate are wasteful; long-term, durable street work makes sense.

A new year and new elective terms have begun. What Granite Citizens want is an end to the kind of "dazzling footwork" associated with individual stars but disastrous team failure.

There is a living, breathing city here, one that desperately needs to move forward, one that should render good service rather than bad excuses, one that needs to solve problems instead of letting them accumulate and grow into insurmountable obstacles.

"Can do" people and policies can succeed. And if progress is achieved, there will be plenty of credit and applause to go around.

Catholic education in jeopardy

Catholic education for children in the Madison and Venice area is in jeopardy.

Declining enrollment, escalating costs, rising tuition and mobile population—all have combined to bring an end to the 70-year history of St. Mary-St. Mark School. Springfield Diocesan officials announced last week that the facility would close its doors at the end of this school year.

It is the latest in a series of upheavals in our Catholic community. Last year Sacred Heart-St. Joseph's closed in Granite City and merged with St. Margaret Mary. The new entity, known as Holy Family, has been quite successful in its early stages, and it was hoped the change would be the last major obstacle for Catholics here. Last week's news, however, dispelled that theory.

For several weeks it has been known that the St. Mark School building on Broadway in Venice was to be closed. And it has been feared during most of that time that the combined St. Mary-St. Mark structure on Lee Street in Madison would have the same thing happen. It has.

Area mourns death of B.E. Hohlt

Local residents are saddened by the death this week of B.E. Hohlt, 83, of Belleville, charter president of the Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce.

His long and positive business career included heading the Ford Mercury-Lincoln automobile agency in Granite City and the Madison Mutual Insurance Company in Edwardsville. His service and leadership will be missed.

Mount Zion member thankful

To the editor:

As a member of Mount Zion General Baptist Church, I express appreciation to all in our community who came to our aid when our church building was destroyed by fire. Many of you were there before the smoke even cleared, expressing your concern and sympathy.

Your desire to help has been a source of encouragement to us. I cannot know every individual, organization and church that has extended a helping hand to us, but I thank each and pray God's blessing upon you.

I especially want to thank First Christian Church for the use of their facilities for our worship services and St. Peter Evangelical United Church of Christ for allowing our school, Gateway Christian Academy, to complete the year in their church.

The loss of our building and its contents has been very painful; however, we still have God's precious gift of memories. The fire did not, and cannot, destroy God's word or prevent his people from carrying on his work.

We rejoice in God's blessings and His words to us as found in Romans 8:28, "All things work together for good to them that love God, to them that are called according to His purpose." Mount Zion stands on this promise.

Sports verbs you'll never see again

Headline writers frequently get the urge to vent their frustrations. That's why you'll always be able to find the most active verbs imaginable in the average newspaper.

For instance, this morning it wasn't hard finding the words: "slam," "rip," "smash," "block," "target," and the ever popular "nix."

But baseball broadcasters hold their own, bending over backward to try out new and untested verbs in their never-ending sports reports. The other morning on the way to work, I tuned in to hear the following:

"The A's zapped the Rangers, 2-1; the Brewers humbled the Twins, 11-2; the Phils edged the Dodgers, 2-1; and the Cards blanked the Pirates 4-0."

Where would broadcasters be without "zapped," "humbled," "edged" and "blanked?"

Why, the report I heard went so far as to say "Montreal Exposed the Mets." Quick! Get Keith Hernandez a towel!

Of course, we all know it's just a little bit funny the way newsmen scramble to mix their verbs, always hoping they'll never duplicate one in the same report. After all, it gets pretty dull when the same reported acts, "The Cardinals beat the Phillies, the Braves beat the Pirates, the Astros beat..." Too dull! So they cuten it up a little bit, by getting out the thesaurus and finding as many action verbs as necessary.

The possibilities are endless, especially when you're creative. I came up with a few that I'd like to see written.

"Indians eaten by Tigers."
"Mariners get A's kicked."
"Orioles pluck Bluejays."
"Giants squish Cubs."
"White Sox don't fit Twins."
"Brewers drowned on Royal bingie."

I can't wait for the World Series when we can mix the leagues a little. Just imagine the fall classic played in Seattle: "Padres err, thrown out of Kingdome."

One day, some sportswriter is going to give us all a scare. We'll think Russia launched a missile in our direction when we read: "Reds miss Los Angeles, hit road."

Mother's words remembered

To the editor:

"Millie, thread this needle for me, please."

As far back as I can remember, I heard the familiar voice of my mother.

Whether at play, or doing schoolwork, at times I would stamp my right foot up and down hard. Mom, again? She always thanked me tenderly, smiled sweetly, looked at me demurely, with those big, beautiful, brown eyes.

The four seasons came and went, year in and year out. "Millie, thread this needle for me, please." Then suddenly, without any warning, the voice was stilled.

No longer would I hear, "Millie, thread this needle for me, please." God took her to rest.

The four seasons came and went, and then one day a childless woman called out to whomever could hear her. "Thread this needle for me, please." Familiar words? Yes, but not the same voice being repeated. For the voice is now my own.

Harassment by phone improper

To the editor:

Illinois law defines harassment as the use of the telephone to make lewd or indecent comments or requests with intent to offend or to cause another's telephone to ring repeatedly with intent to harass. The law provides a penalty of up to six months in jail and/or a $500 fine.

With deliberate attempt to annoy, a person dials repeatedly, often arousing one from sleep. Several calls are made a day. Each time, the caller hangs up the telephone as soon as the "Hello" has been said. Identification has occurred with the use of foul language after two or three calls have been made. The caller also has been known to make as many as 15 calls to one number, each time hanging up.

Why should a number be changed to accommodate the caller? It costs to get a different number, to erase one's number completely from those who seek only to call in friendship.

A person who harasses by telephone should lose their privileges of ever having a home phone. Penalties should be tough and people should provide information gladly to promote prosecution.

Proposal needs veterans' support

To the editor:

I am seeking the support of all Illinois veterans and their families. The Veterans' Upward Bound Program's education grant for the next three years Aug. 15. I am trying to influence the Department of Education to re-evaluate and award a grant.

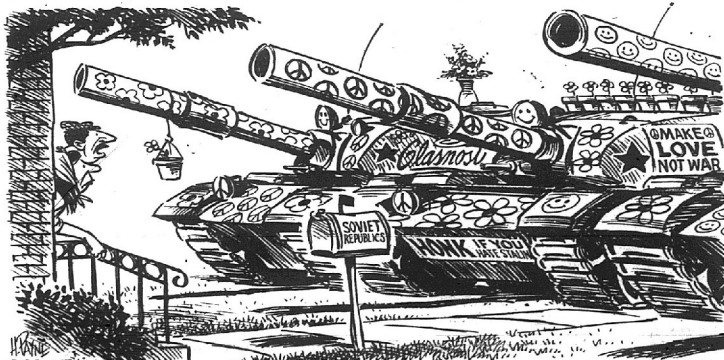

The Upward Bound Program here at Lake Land College is nine years old. It is a unique program which offers college testing, tutoring, counseling, computer skills, job placement and resource people. They assist in financial aid, veterans' claims and needed medical assistance as well as helping the veteran adjust to the levels of education required by the employer.

Veterans' Upward Bound cannot exist without funding. Legislators should realize that it is an excellent higher education program.

Letters of support for the program can be sent to: Secretary Lauro Cuvavos, Department of Education, 400 Maryland Ave. SW, Washington, D.C. 20202.

Notes

Central Banc income rises

FAIRVIEW HEIGHTS — Central Banc System Inc. has announced its net income rose 6.5 percent to $280,941, or $1.70 a share, in the first quarter of 1989 compared to the same period of 1988.

Drew Karandjeff, chairman and president, attributed the better results to stronger loan demand and a 19.7 percent increase in net interest margins.

Non-performing loans, as of March 31, declined to $2,772,000 or 1.84 percent of total loans, from $3,758,000 or 2.97 percent of total loans a year earlier.

Compared to the first quarter of 1988, total assets increased 7.1 percent from $260,000,000 to $278,543,000.

Loans were up 21.5 percent. Deposits rose 6.4 percent to $246,105,000 from $231,251,000.

Central Banc System Inc. is a $278 million bank holding company. Its members include Central Bank, with locations in Granite City, Glen Carbon, Marine and Fairview Heights, and Farmers and Merchants Bank in Carlinville.

Flood Realty Centre honored

GRANITE CITY — Flood Realty Centre, 5220 Nameoki Road, was given national recognition recently for placing in the top 10 percent of more than 8,500 real estate firms across the country.

The honor was given by the National Statistical Research Co. of Chicago.

It is based on a computer analysis of hundreds of thousands of questionnaires sent to recent home buyers asking them for an evaluation of the service they received from the real estate firm that handled their purchase.

An overwhelming majority of Flood Realty Centre's customers rated the service as good or excellent.

The National Statistical Research Co. was founded in 1968 to assist the real estate industry in offering better service to its customers.

Crews agents attend seminar

GRANITE CITY — Sixteen agents from Crews Realty/Better Homes and Gardens attended an all-day seminar on "Marketing Techniques for Today's Real Estate Market."

The seminar was presented by Barb Swartz, who has been described as "the hottest real estate trainer in the nation today."

Her program featured a home merchandising system now being introduced into the market by Crews Realty.

Attending were: George Crews, owner; Harold Cavins, sales manager; Ginny Boxer, office manager; and Neva Lucas, Debbie Brimer, Bernie Maxfield, Linda Annable, Marie Szymek, Linda Valencia, Janet Partney, Laura Kessler, Jackie Coker, Chuck Osburn, Mary Ritchie, Fred Fossick and Lucinda Ebling Schmidt.

Roder to attend convention

GRANITE CITY — Linda Roder, owner of the Merle Norman Cosmetics Studio, 13 Crossroads Plaza, Granite City, will join more than 20,000 other beauty experts May 16 at the 58th Annual International Merle Norman Convention in Dallas.

The theme for the three-day convention is "Think Big." Held in the Loews Anatole Hotel, it will feature the latest news about beauty, fashion and cosmetics. It will include exhibits, mini-seminars, workshops, product presentations and speeches.

Jeanne Kirkpatrick, former U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, will be the keynote speaker. Fitness and health expert Richard Simmons will give a presentation and participate in several workshops.

The convention will close with a formal banquet featuring a performance by composer, conductor and pianist Marvin Hamlisch.

Many prizes will be awarded including a 1989 Ford Thunderbird, an all-expenses paid trip to Europe and a $2,500 shopping spree at Neiman Marcus.

Merle Norman Cosmetics has more than 2,400 studios in the United States and Canada.

Magna sees 1989 upreard announces board of directors

Plans for 1989 were outlined as William S. Badgley, chairman of Magna Group Inc., addressed the stockholders at Magna's annual meeting.

Badgley emphasized, "The strategic plan of Magna calls for improved performance, which will be achieved through target marketing of products, improving asset quality, delivering quality service, fair pricing of services and controlling non-interest expense."

Badgley noted that Magna's acquisition program has slowed, but indicated that Magna is still looking for new partners in new markets which fit its geographic plan. Badgley added, "The pace slowed because we are trying to protect our earnings position."

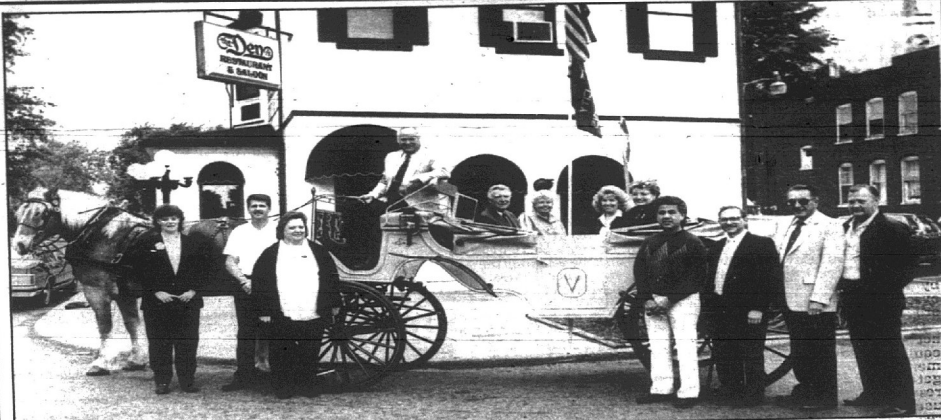

At the meeting, stockholders approved the election of the following directors to serve three-year terms: William S. Badgley, chairman of the board and president of Magna; Theodore F. Gundlach, president of T.J. Gundlach Machine; C.E. Heiligenstein, attorney; David A. Vogt, president, Magna Bank of Columbia.

Directors continuing in office for one year are: G. Thomas Andes, vice chairman of Magna Group Inc., and president and chief executive officer of Magna Bank, N.A.; Donald G. Geary, chairman of the board, Affordable Inns Inc.; Wendell J. Kelley, chairman of the board, Illinois Power Co.; Warren L. Martin, chairman of the board and president, Magna Bank of Springfield; and Robert E. MacClynn, attorney.

Directors continuing for two years are: Harry E. Crumpton, vice chairman of Magna Group Inc. and chairman of the board and chief executive officer of Magna Bank of Belleville; Wayne T. Ewing, president, Peabody Development Co.; Ray G. Livasy, president, Magna Milliken Bank of Decatur, N.A.; Joseph R. Lowery, attorney; and George T. Wilkins, physician.

Badgley announced the board's declaration of the second-quarter dividend per share. The dividend will be payable to all stockholders of record May 15 and is payable on June 10.

Magna Group Inc., a multi-bank holding company headquartered in Belleville, owns 14 banks, a trust company and a data processing company. Merger with the Bank of Sesser, Sesser, Ill., was recently consummated, Badgley said.

Gonwa and Janet Mills; Mercie Mendoza, representing the township assessor's office; and chamber ambassadors Harvey Cohen, Lacey Randolph and Jack Cooper. ## Center helps small businesses

By Andy Siering
Staff writer

This is national Small Business Week. But some have called the '80s the decade of the small businessman. About 85 percent of all jobs created in the last 10 years have been created by small companies.

"Small businesses employ six out of every 10 people in our nation and create the majority of new jobs," said Gov. Jim Thompson in issuing a proclamation declaring May 7-13 Small Business Week in Illinois. "Their flexibility and ingenuity have brought many of our nation's greatest inventions to market."

There are more than 351,000 small businesses in Illinois. Different types of small businesses are defined differently. A "small" manufacturing operation would have fewer than 500 employees. A small service operation would have fewer than 10.

Illinois has a sophisticated assistance network for small business, including 56 Small Business Development Centers. SBDIC located at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

His office counsels would-be entrepreneurs in a number of areas. For example, it will review their plans prior to their seeking start-up capital. This helps them get loans.

"We know what the banks want to see," Franke said.

The SBDIC also helps businesses make sure they are aware of the most up-to-date technologies when manufacturing is involved.

It reviews marketing plans and fine-tunes their expected profitability studies.

"Sometimes they adjust their plans," Franke said, "and sometimes they decide, no, they don't want to go into business after all."

Franke estimates that the range of services offered by the SBDICs "can reduce the risk by about 60 percent. The first three years are the most critical."

He said eight of 10 small businesses fail within three years.

Franke said the most common causes of failure include failure to research the market — what customers want and how much competition there is — and under-capitalization.

"It's not what you want to make, it's what the customer wants to buy."

"And, typically, they don't realize the high cost of maintaining stock, and they usually underestimate the break-even point."

Another common cause of failure is inadequate cash flow. As sales increase, so do expenses which usually come due before the customers' bills are paid.

For small business assistance, individuals or firms may call or write: Arnold G. Franke, Southern Illinois SBDIC, Box 1107, Bldg. II, Room 3315, SIUE, Edwardsville, Ill. 62026-1107 (1-602-2929).

BPW at state convention

The annual State Convention for the Illinois Federation of Business and Professional Women's Organization was held April 14-16 at Pheasant Run Resort in St. Charles, Ill. Approximately 550 members attended.

Judy Bredeweg was installed as the 1989-90 BPW Illinois State President during ceremonies held on Saturday night.

Emphasis was placed on BPW introducing working women to the networking resource of the Illinois Federation. Her theme was "Raising the Image of BPW."

Other officers serving with her will be Christine LaFrance, president-elect; Sandra Scott, first vice president; Linda Hillbrand, second vice president; Gayle Guthrie Pucinski, recording secretary; and Frances Hall, treasurer.

Action taken during the convention was the approval of the budget for 1989-90 and the by-laws.

The goal of 2,012 was reached for the stain glass window in honor of Past National President and Past Illinois Federation President Jean McCarey. It will be put in the newly remodeled headquarters of the Illinois Federation.

Honors accorded the Gateway BPW at the convention include an award from National BPW Foundation and a certificate for the equalization of their membership.

Those attending from the Gateway BPW were Ruth Nicholas, president-elect, who will be installed as the club's president on May 24, and Ollie Derr, networking chairman.

Military relocation BH&G real estate specialty

Better Homes and Gardens Real Estate Service and the U.S. Army recently announced that the Better Homes and Gardens Military Relocation Assistance Program is now available through all U.S. Army housing offices to assist transferring Army personnel and their families with the purchase, sale and financing of a home.

"The program has been developed in cooperation with Army officials to provide mortgage/relocation service," said Jackie Coker, relocation director of Crews Realty/Better Homes and Gardens in Granite City. "Our main goal is to offer a special package of services that will ease the entire relocation process — and to do it at no cost to the Army service men and women."

And to do this effectively, Coker added, Better Homes and Gardens' Real Estate Service established a special program that allows the Army transferee to work directly with a military referral coordinator who will serve as a personal contact source.

Coker said many Better Homes and Gardens firms will also offer a custom-designed military relocation program that can provide: discount fees on mortgage loans; rental assistance; property management; educational counseling; spouse employment counseling; new home sales; and a New Homeowner's Shopping Guide.

The Military Relocation Assistance Program is also designed to provide the military transferee access to the services of Better Homes and Gardens Home Marketing System and Home Buying System.

Under the Better Homes and Gardens Military Relocation Assistance Program the transferee can save on mortgages obtained through a special arrangement with Washington Square Mortgage Co., she said.

Better Homes and Gardens Real Estate Service is a national network of over 640 locally owned and operated residential real estate companies — including two corporate-owned firms — franchised under the Better Homes and Gardens name. Better Homes and Gardens Real Estate Service is an operating group of Meredith Corporation. Meredith Corp. is a diversified media company involved in magazine and book publishing, television broadcasting, residential real estate marketing and franchising, and commercial printing.

HAROLD CAVINS has been promoted to sales manager, George Crews, owner of Crews Realty/Better Homes and Gardens, announced. Cavins will supervise 27 realtors. He has 10 years of experience in real estate and is currently serving as secretary of the Granite City Board of Realtors. He also serves on a number of committees of the Illinois Association of Realtors.

STD: The other teen-age menace

The author, Dr. Barry Slotky is an obstetrician/gynecologist with a general practice in the Bloomington area. He is a member of the Illinois State Medical Society.

When we parents think about the issues facing teen-agers today, we probably think that their most serious problems stem from drugs or the threat of unwanted pregnancy.

However, there is another dangerous menace — of epidemic proportions — that is endangering the health of our teen-agers every day. That menace is venereal disease or, to use a more clinical term, sexually transmitted disease (STD).

In fact, the STD problem is so severe that we can't afford to be squeamish in reading, listening or talking about it.

Thus, I hope you will understand my frankness. We're talking about serious illnesses and infections: chlamydia, warts, genital herpes, gonorrhea, syphilis and, of course, AIDS (acquired immune deficiency syndrome).

We're also talking about long-term complications and health problems if STDs are not treated properly, including infertility, arthritis, permanent organ damage, and possibly death.

And we're talking about a potentially enormous disease pool nationwide: of 29 million adolescents over the age of 12, about 12 million are sexually active and are potential disease sufferers.

In my practice alone, which could be characterized as rural, I treat up to 25 percent of my patients for some sort of sexually-transmitted disease in the course of a month, and that includes teen-agers.

Chlamydia is a common STD. Within the alarming volume of STDs in my own practice, I am most concerned with the rise in the number of women I see with chlamydia.

According to the Centers for Disease Control, chlamydia is the nation's most common STD, with about 4.5 million new cases a year.

In fact, recent studies report an infection rate of 7.6 percent, or 1 in 13 women.

Unfortunately for both teens and adults, most women usually have no symptoms with chlamydia. While men also may have no symptoms, some can experience painful urination, itching, and a watery discharge.

The only sure way for physicians to verify whether chlamydia is present is through a simple test.

If chlamydia is not diagnosed or treated, it can cause inflammation and scarring of tissue. This can lead to infertility in men as well as women.

It can also cause ectopic pregnancies in women, pelvic inflammatory disease, and can have adverse effects on newborns.

The irony here is that once detected, chlamydia is simple to treat: antibiotic therapy usually cures the infection.

Cure, control and prevention. In fact, most STDs can be cured or controlled to a large extent. Even genital herpes, which captured so much attention several years ago, can now be controlled with new anti-viral drugs.

Today, our real challenge is to teach our teen-agers how to prevent STDs in the first place.

In many cases that means reducing ourselves.

We need to realize that we can't turn back the clock. With over 40 percent of our teens sexually active, we need to find ways to talk openly and honestly about sex and STDs with our children before they become sexually active.

This may mean talking to them while they're still in the primary grades. We need to find the right words. We need to be available to answer their questions. We need to remain non-judgmental.

Above all, we need to remember that we are our children's role models. For those parents who feel they're not up to the challenge, organizations like Planned Parenthood can help through direct "rap" sessions with teens.

With STDs, that means always using condoms and spermicidal foam during intercourse. It also means seeing a physician immediately if they see or feel any bumps or blisters, discharge, pain while urinating, bleeding between periods, or itching.

Finally, it means regular examinations with a physician for teen-age girls, particularly if they are sexually active or have multiple partners.

OH WOW! Five-year-old Rachel Wilfong and her 2-year-old brother David, both from Granite City, have a field day on the slide at Wilson Park during a recent warm afternoon.

Fuel consciousness cuts vacation cost

The cost of long-distance driving can be reduced if motorists use gasoline-saving strategies when preparing for the trip as well as when driving, according to the Automotive Information Council.

Maintenance and preparation prior to a vacation are good ways to ensure that your car operates efficiently. Making sure the engine is properly tuned and the tires are correctly inflated are the two most important steps, but there are a few other simple things to remember when planning the trip and packing your car.

First, plan ahead for overnight accommodations. Try to determine how many miles you will drive each day and locate a motel at the end of each day's route. This will help you avoid driving extra miles and wasting gas searching for a place to stay, the council states.

Reservations are advisable, and large chains can wire ahead between their locations for your next night's stop.

Take only what you will need, and keep luggage either in the trunk or rear seat. Using a luggage rack on the car's roof or trunk lid will reduce mileage by as much as 8 percent because of wind resistance.

If you find that you must use a luggage rack, place the smallest items in front to allow for smoother air flow. Relegate the largest and heaviest bags to the back. Be sure to cover and tie down the entire arrangement with a waterproof tarpaulin.

Unless necessary for health reasons or driving safety, do not use the air conditioning for long stretches, the council advised. Just as a car's headlights put the most strain on a battery, air conditioning is the engine's worst hot-weather enemy. Try alternating between air conditioning and open windows.

And when driving long stretches, maintain a constant speed.

CENTRAL BANK NEARS COMPLETION ON THE REMODELING OF THE NAMEOKI FACILITY

(Granite City, Ill.) - Central Bank in Granite City is nearing completion of a major remodeling at its Nameoki facility, it was announced today by Bart J. Solon, President and CEO.

Work at the Nameoki facility began late last fall with a total revamp of the sight. A whole new perimeter of the building has been constructed with the addition of several column structures to support a pyramid glass skylight that will be installed soon. Central's drive-up lanes are being renovated including the addition of another drive-up lane for customer convenience.

The Nameoki facility's interior is being totally renovated and will house Central's Trust Division, Indirect Finance Division, and Consumer and Real Estate Loan departments in addition to Nameoki's administrative and operational staff. "Daniel A. Debert, Senior Vice President, a Granite City ten-year resident, will manage the Nameoki facility," Solon said. The Grand Opening is tentatively scheduled for June.

Solon said the remodeling of the facility is evidence of Central Bank's continuing commitment to meeting the financial service needs of the Granite City community. "Our bank has grown with this community, and it is our intention to continue to provide the finest banking services available," Solon said. "This extensive remodeling of the Nameoki facility is evidence of our commitment to our customers."

Central Bank has locations in Granite City, Glen Carbon, Marine and Fairview Heights. It is a member of Central Banc System, Inc., a $278 million bank holding company. Other members include Farmers and Merchants Bank in Carlinville, Illinois.

JAMES BELUSHI and Jerry Lee, two of the toughest cops in town, star in "K-9."

Dog, man at their best in action comedy 'K-9'

By Frank Hunter
Staff affiliate

James Belushi fans, and people who love German shepherds and loathe dope peddlers, probably will enjoy the action comedy "K-9" (***).

This is one of those lightweight summer romps that grows on you thanks to the interplay between man and beast, an eccentric San Diego narcotics cop Thomas Dooley (Belushi) and his fleet-footed police dog partner Jerry Lee, one of those remarkable canines that can sniff out concealed drugs.

The humor derives from Jerry Lee's penchant for extricating the bumbling Dooley from severe al perilous encounters with Lyman, a smug big-time dealer played by Kevin Tighe who is busy arranging a multimillion-dollar buy.

Lyman, a pretender to legitimacy, throws lavish dinners for unsuspecting friends in his fancy digs on the coast and never would think of inviting Dooley, a moist and shaggy slob in a flour-sack suit.

Nevertheless, the eccentric Dooley manages to squeeze information out of Lyman's thugs with the help of snarling Jerry Lee, whose notion of a tasty hors d'oeuvre is a pistol-packing pusher. Some of their methods are artful without a doubt.

But Dooley's life is not in good order, especially when it comes to Tracy (Mel Harris), a girl convinced his work means more to him than she does and who worries that Dooley's drug-bust activities are going to get him killed.

Police mutt Jerry Lee is wary of his colleague's ability to take on the drug boss and never takes his eyes off Dooley. The chemistry between them often is funny.

But the main interest stems from the guy-and-his-dog premise developed by writers Steven Siegel and Scott Myers. They focus on the distrust, bickering and humorous confrontations between the macho cop and a recalcitrant bound. And Jerry Lee expresses more with a bark and a tail wag in 30 seconds than his owner can by wrapping his tongue around five minutes' dialogue.

DALE MIDKIFF PLAYS Dr. Louis Creed, who discovers the chilling secret of an unusual graveyard in "Pet Sematary."

Dull 'Pet Sematary' needs to be buried

By Frank Hunter
Staff affiliate

Building a fence around a graveyard doesn't make a lot of sense because the people inside can't get out, and those on the outside aren't crazy to get in. But you always can count on Stephen King to play hell with tradition, which he does with minimal success in the film treatment of his 1983 novel "Pet Sematary" (*3/4).

This perverse but disappointing shocker from the author of "The Shining," "Carrie," and "Salem's Lot" also was adapted for the screen by the author. "Pet Sematary," yet another yarn in which some unsuspecting folks are besieged by evil, starts with the death of the family cat and the owner's subsequent obsession with a pet burial ground that is anything but a final resting place. The deceased beast was squashed flat by a speeding oil rig while frolicking on a busy highway near the Maine country house where young Dr. Louis Creed (Dale Midkiff) has moved his nice family from Chicago. The Creed clan includes wife Rachel (Denise Crosby) and tots Ellie and Gage (Blaze Berdahl and Miko Hughes).

As things develop, the quiet pet cemetery where Creed buries the animal proves to have an unnatural fascination for him. Particularly after the freshly planted cadaver creeps back home with eyes aglow.

The memory of the mist-shrouded cemetery proves too strong and takes Creed a prisoner with its queerly decorated grave markers and toys and other remembrances of pets left by children of townspeople. Creed is a typical King creation, an otherwise rational man ultimately possessed by his obsession.

The most interesting character is Jud Crandall, the Creeds' neighbor from across the road. As played by Fred Gwynne, Crandall is a naive, beer-guzzling rube with an ominous mien who becomes a father figure to Louis Creed and winds up trapped in the nightmarish proceedings because of his own stupidity.

Creed's wife Rachel has her own special set of worries, plagued by memories of a sister who died horribly of spinal meningitis.

The performances, especially by Midkiff and Crosby, are stupefying, more wooden than the timber near Ellsworth, Maine, where "Pet Sematary" was filmed.

Your Suburban Journal Invites You To Be A Part Of St. Louis History This June 11.

The Suburban Journals and the Missouri Historical Society are putting together a St. Louis Family Album to celebrate our great city's 225th Anniversary, and we'd like to include a photo of YOUR family. After all, you're an important part of St. Louis history.

The celebration starts at noon on June 11 at the History Museum in Forest Park. Pack an old fashioned picnic lunch and bring your family to visit the museum's special exhibit on the founding of St. Louis, "La Ville de Pain Court: St. Louis 1764-1820."

Drop off a current family photo attached to this Official Family Photo Album Page when you visit the exhibit. We'll put every family photo into our "St. Louis Family Album 1989." Then, we'll put the album safely away for 25 years. In 2014, on the 250th Anniversary of St. Louis, we'll place it on exhibit, so you can see exactly how you and everybody else looked way back in 1989.

If you can't make it to the picnic in Forest Park, mail your photo to The Suburban Journals, St. Louis Family Album, 1714 Deer Tracks Trail, St. Louis, MO 63131. In either case, completely fill out the information in the box.

Sorry, no photos can be returned. All photos become the property of the Missouri Historical Society. No slides, no instant camera photos. Color prints and black and white prints only.

Go down in history! Get your family together and take a current picture! Then, join us on June 11 at The St. Louis History Museum (The Jefferson Memorial) on the north side of Forest Park near DeBalliviere.

Thanks A Bunch, Mom

Give Homemade Treats On Mother's Day

By Lynn Vanhaus
Journal Correspondent

If your mom saved all your works of art from school days, it's time to return the favor with an edible masterpiece for a special Mother's Day gift.

Perhaps your mother no longer fits the June Cleaver stereotype, whipping up square meals and wearing pearls while vacuuming. Maybe she's a busy working mom these days. So a gift of food—carrot and oat bran muffins, heart cookies, or a favorite quick bread—would be welcome on Mother's Day, May 14. She can eat the muffins for breakfast and maybe snack on the cookies at coffee break Monday morning.

You can still give her diamonds or that trip to Hawaii, but a little homemade treat is a nice way to express your thanks, too. After all, she made you all those lunches of tomato soup and grilled-cheese sandwiches years ago.

These gifts are also not limited to the woman who raised you—grandmas, aunts and "second-mom" friends and neighbors are sure to be delighted with an edible gift as well.

If your siblings are gathering to take mom to brunch or a later supper, you could bring garden sandwiches for a light in-between meal. If your family features big eaters, then a crunchy vegetable cheese ball might be more substantial. And, in case your brothers yell "Where's the beef?", make a small tray of melon wedges wrapped in prosciutto ham for an interesting combination of flavors.

Or, after dining out, your family could all gather at your house for an extra-special dessert. This will give you a chance to try a luscious Amaretto Mousse Trifle, which you can make the night before. It refrigerates well overnight. While many of the recipes on this page are geared to healthy eating, this dessert is no-holds-barred rich with pudding, whipped cream and cake.

Everyone seems to want gooey desserts as a reward for being good the rest of the time. Tell mom she can aerobically burn a batch of chocolate chip cookies and your mom would gush her appreciation. These recipes are so easy that mom's "oohs" and "ahs" will be sincere. She might even pay you the ultimate compliment and ask you for the recipe.

Crunchy Vegetable Cheese Ball

- 1 cup shredded carrots
- 1 pkg. (8 oz.) light cream cheese, softened
- 1 cup (4 oz.) shredded Cheddar cheese
- 1 tsp. minced onion
- 1 cup finely chopped fresh broccoli
- Diagonally sliced carrots and cucumbers
- Assorted crackers

Press shredded carrots between paper towels to remove excess moisture; set aside. In a large bowl, combine cheeses and minced onion. Stir in shredded carrots and broccoli. Cover tightly with plastic wrap. Refrigerate at least 2 hours. Shape mixture into a ball. Place cheese ball on a platter with sliced carrots and cucumbers. Chill until serving time. Serve with assorted crackers.

Melon And Prosciutto Ham

- 1 honeydew or cantaloupe melon (or half each)
- 1/4 lb. prosciutto ham

Cut melon into wedges. Cut prosciutto ham into 1-inch-wide strips. Wrap a few times around melon wedge. Arrange wedges on serving plate with toothpicks straight up. If you'd like, decorate plate with Italian parsley, which is the flat-leaf kind. Chill. Makes 8 servings.

Carrot And Oat Bran Muffins

- 1 1/4 cups oat bran
- 1/4 cup flour
- 1/4 cup packed brown sugar
- 2 tsp. baking powder
- 1 tsp. ground cinnamon
- 1/4 tsp. salt
- 1/4 cup raisins or currants
- 2 egg whites, slightly beaten
- 1/4 cup skim or 2% low-fat milk
- 1/4 cup honey
- 2 tsp. vegetable oil
- 1 cup shredded carrots

Preheat oven to 400°. Place 12 foil bake cups in a muffin pan; set aside. In a large bowl, combine oat bran, flour, brown sugar, baking powder, cinnamon, salt and raisins; set aside.

In a small bowl, combine egg whites, milk, honey, oil and carrots, blending well with a fork. Add liquid ingredients to dry ingredients; stir just until dry ingredients are moistened. Spoon batter into bake cups, filling 3/4 full. Bake 20 to 22 minutes, or until golden brown. Wrap four muffins in plastic wrap and tie with decorative ribbon for each gift. Makes 12 muffins.

Strawberry Bread

- 3 cups flour
- 1 tsp. baking soda
- 1 tsp. cinnamon
- 2 cups sugar
- 1 tsp. salt
- 1 1/4 cups vegetable oil
- 4 eggs, well beaten
- 1 cup chopped pecans
- 2 (10-oz.) pkgs. frozen strawberries, thawed and sliced
- Strawberry Spread
- 1/2 cup strawberry juice (reserved from the frozen berries)
- 1 (8-oz.) pkg. cream cheese, softened

Reserve 1/2 cup strawberry juice for spread. In large bowl, mix flour, baking soda, cinnamon, sugar and salt. Make a hole in the center of mixture. Pour strawberries, oil and eggs into the hole. Mix with a wooden spoon until all dry ingredients are thoroughly combined. Stir in chopped pecans.

Pour into 2 greased and floured 9- by 5-inch pans. Bake at 350° for 40 to 60 minutes. Spread Strawberry Spread on cooled bread.

Great Garden Sandwiches

- Sandwich Base:
- 1 pkg. (8 oz.) light cream cheese, softened
- 1 green onion, chopped (optional)
- 8 slices whole grain or sourdough bread
- Toppings:
- 1 cup alfalfa sprouts
- 2 cherry tomatoes
- 2 slices yellow squash
- 4 carrots
- 1/4 red pepper
- 8 celery leaves
- 8 broccoli flowerets
- 4 slices cucumber
- 16 green onion strips

Combine cream cheese and chopped green onion. Spread 1/4 of cream cheese on each slice of bread. Arrange vegetable flowers on top of cream cheese using the topping ingredients and following the directions for the flowers given. Use alfalfa sprouts for grass. Wrap each open-face sandwich and chill. If desired, pack 2 sandwiches in decorative lunch box for a gift. Makes 8 open-face sandwiches.

ROSE: Cut one cherry tomato in half to make 2 roses. Cut a small wedge out of center of each tomato half. Use green onion strips for the stems. Use cucumber slices, cut in half, for the leaves.

DAISY: Cut carrots in julienne strips. For each daisy, use 7 strips to form daisy petals, leaving center open for one square of yellow squash. Use green onion strips for the stems.

TULIP: Cut yellow squash slice in half to make 2 tulips. Cut 2 small wedges out of the cut side of each half. Place small triangles of red pepper in the cut-out sections. Use green onion strips for the stems. Use celery leaves for the leaves.

MUM: Use about 1 tsp. shredded carrots to form the bloom. Use the green onion strips for the stem. Use small broccoli flowerets for the leaves.

Amaretto Mousse Trifle

- 5 cups white or yellow cake cubes*
- 3 to 4 tbsp. amaretto
- 1 1/4 cups cold milk
- 1 (4-oz.) pkg. chocolate instant pudding and pie filling mix
- 2 cups whipping cream, whipped
- Chocolate curls
- Sliced almonds

Sprinkle cake cubes evenly with amaretto. In small bowl, combine milk and pudding mix; beat at low speed 1 to 2 minutes. Let pudding stand 5 minutes to thicken. Fold 1 1/4 cups of the whipped cream into pudding. Spoon about 1/4 of pudding mixture into bottom of 2 1/2-quart, straight-sided, clear-glass serving bowl. Add 1/4 of the cake cubes. Repeat layers two more times forming 3 layers of cake and pudding. Pipe or dollop remaining whipped cream over top layer of cake cubes. Garnish with chocolate curls and sliced almonds. Refrigerate until serving time. Makes 12 servings.

*This recipe will need one baked cake layer or half of a 13- by 9-inch cake.

Heart-to-Heart Wheat Cookies

- 1 cup all-purpose flour
- 1/4 cup whole wheat flour
- 1 tsp. baking powder
- 1/2 cup margarine
- 1/4 cup sugar
- 1 egg*
- 1 tsp. almond extract

Combine flours and baking powder; set aside. In a medium bowl, cream margarine; gradually add sugar, beating until light and fluffy. Add egg, beating well. Stir in almond extract. Add flour mixture, stirring until blended. Cover and chill dough at least one hour. Preheat oven to 375°. Turn dough onto a lightly floured sheet of waxed paper and roll to 1/4-inch thickness. Cut with a 3/4-inch heart-shaped cookie cutter. Place on an aluminum foil-lined cookie sheet. Bake 8 minutes or until lightly browned on edges. Slide foil sheet with baked cookies onto rack to cool. Re-line cookie sheet with foil and bake remaining cookies. Wrap six cookies stacked together in a sheet of plastic wrap for each gift. Makes 18 cookies.

*You may substitute 1/4-cup cholesterol-free egg product for the egg.

High-protein legumes provide inexpensive, tasty meal ideas

By Jacqueline Lankfer
Registered dietitian
American Heart Association

With a few exceptions, meals are rarely planned around legumes. In fact, many people do not know what a legume is.

Legumes are seeds that grow in pods. Examples are black-eyed peas, black beans, kidney beans, lentils, navy beans, pinto beans, split peas and soybeans. String beans and green peas are not considered legumes because they contain fewer nutrients than the legumes listed above.

The nutritional benefits of legumes seem endless. They are high in protein, low in fat and cholesterol-free. They are rich in the B-vitamins, iron, magnesium and zinc. As an added benefit, legumes provide an excellent source for soluble fiber which is beneficial in lowering blood cholesterol.

Despite the many benefits, there may be some hesitancy to experiment with bean dishes. Lack of preparation knowledge and unpleasant gastrointestinal side effects contribute to this situation.

Planning ahead is the key to legume preparation. All dried beans except split peas and lentils should be soaked. One method consists of washing the legumes, putting them in a pan with four parts water and soaking them overnight. Another method is boiling washed beans in four parts water for three or four minutes. Remove from heat, cover and let stand one hour.

To cook, drain and rinse beans. Return to pan and add enough fresh water to cover them. Bring water to a rolling boil, reduce heat and simmer until tender. This will take anywhere from 30 minutes to three hours, depending on the legume used.

An easy solution for a time crunch is canned beans. Rinse under cold running water one minute to reduce sodium.

Soaking the beans overnight will reduce gas formation. Gradual introduction of high fiber foods into a meal pattern also will help the body adjust. In short, tolerance is better once the body becomes accustomed to a fiber-rich diet.

Try these and other combinations like Curried Rice-Soup Salad for tasty, low-fat, high fiber meatless meals.

Curried rice-bean salad

- 3 cups cooked brown rice
- 1 1/2 cups cooked red kidney beans
- 4 green onions, chopped
- 1/2 green pepper, diced
- 2 stalks celery, diced

- 1/4 cup chopped fresh parsley
- 1/4 cup mayonnaise
- 1/4 cup plain low-fat yogurt
- 2 tsp. curry powder
- Dash freshly ground black pepper

Combine rice, beans, onions green pepper, celery and parsley. Toss to mix.

In separate bowl, combine mayonnaise, yogurt, curry powder and black pepper. Blend thoroughly with rice mixture.

Yields 6 servings; 145 calories, 5 gm. fat, 64 mg. sodium and 6 gm. cholesterol each.

Tiny peas pack powerful nutrition

A 17th-century English botanist had this to say about peas: "Peas have no manifest quality, are neither good nor bad and neither nourish much nor little." How mistaken he was. Today we know peas are nutritious indeed. What is in a cup of raw peas besides flavorful eating? They are a rich source of the valuable minerals phosphorus and potassium. The tiny legume packs a lot of vitamin power, too. Although they are high in carbohydrates, peas have fewer calories cup for cup than yogurt, corn or potatoes.

Peas, like all other vegetables, begin to lose their nutritive value as they are cooked in water. Overcooking causes garden peas to wrinkle, snap peas to lose their snap and edible-podded peas, or snow peas, to wilt instead of crunch.

Steaming or stir-frying will keep the peas bright green, crisp and tender and will help retain the water-soluble vitamins and minerals.

These plants stand up to grueling summers

Last summer's record high temperatures and low precipitation took severe toll on many of the nation's gardens. While there is no guarantee that similar weather will not occur again this year, there is a way gardeners can guard against heavy losses. That is to select plants or specific varieties of plants that are heat- and drought-resistant.

In the lists below, the National Garden Bureau identifies some of the plants that usually can be counted on to perform when summer gets tough. However, the bureau emphasizes that there could be more classes on this list for different areas of the country. For example, amaranthus is heat-resistant in the Midwest, but not in the Southeast. It is not listed because it is regionally, not nationally heat resistant.

All of the following plants not only show good heat- and drought-resistance, but are also easy to grow from seed:

Annuals/ornamentals
Basil, celosia (not recommended for areas with high salts in soils), cleome, cosmos, gazania (best performance under cooler night temperatures), gom phren, helichrysum (strawflower), Kochia (summer cypress), marigold (best performance under cooler night temperatures), melampodium, mirabilis (four o'clocks), morning glory, nicotiana.

Perennials
Achillea (yarrow), asclepias (butterfly weed), coreopsis, gallardia, lavender, rudbeckia.

Vegetables
Cucumber, muskmelon (cantaloupe), okra, squash, tomato, watermelon.

Tracking the Trojanettes

Madison's hopes high on eve of Class A sectional competition

By Dave Whaley
Executive sports editor

MADISON — Gene Briggs doesn't want to go overboard with his optimism. But one can almost feel it bubbling inside of him.

Briggs, the second-year head coach of the Madison girls track team, knows his squad has the potential for greatness this year. Now it's up to the Trojanettes to realize all that potential when it really counts.

It counts Friday when the Trojanettes travel to Red Bud for the Class A Sectional. Also there will be Breese Central, Mater Dei, Chester, Columbia, DuQuoin, Dupont, East St. Assumption, Freeburg, Nashville, Pinckneyville, Red Bud, Sesser-Valley, Sparta, Washburn, Walnut, Waterloo and Wood lawn.

But Briggs doesn't worry about any of those teams.

"We want personal bests," he said. "We just want the girls to go out and run as well as they can."

If they do that, Briggs knows they will be taking a load of runners to the state meet in Charleston on May 19.

"We have an 800 meter relay team which has not been beaten in two years," he said. "We have a 400 meter relay team which has lost only once, and that was at state last year when the winning team (Rock Island Allam) ran a state record time. And our 800 medley team is ranked second in the state."

"So all we have to do is run

Qualifying marks

For each individual and relay team to qualify for each event at the sectional will qualify for state. In addition, any individual or relay team which equals or surpasses the qualifying mark established by the IHSAA will qualify for state. The qualifying marks in girls track for each class follow:

For teams only, in the 1600 meter hurdle, the first three places from each sectional shall advance to the state meet.

Sharon Browley

Sheila Marshall won state in the 800 relay last year with a time of 1:44.63. Sheila Marshall graduated, but Tramia Burt stepped in and that relay hasn't missed a beat. Sharon Browley joins Garrett, Marshall and Turner on the 400 relay, which was second last year at state (the Marshall sisters, Turner and Garrett) with a time of 49.67 to Allam's 49.03. Shaonda Virginia joins Browley, Marshall and Garrett on the 800 medley squad, which took eighth in the state last year (the Marshalls, Browley and Garrett) with a time of 1:52.77.

"Vivian, LaGloria and Melissa Davenport are our senior leaders," Briggs said. "The senior group has done an excellent job. The practice habits of this team are outstanding and the seniors deserve a lot of credit for that."

Katrina Garrett

"This is just an outstanding program. We stay injury-free and we're consistent. We don't always get a lot of recognition in the area or the state, but it's a great group."

Marshall and Garrett are threats in the 200 meters and Turner is a threat in the 100, in which she took sixth in the state last year at 12.87. Briggs also sees Browley in the long jump, Marvis Jones in the shot put, Burt and Angelique Brown in the high jump and the mile relay team (ranked sixth in the state now) of Tanya Wellmaker, Virginia, Detra Blakely, Davenport and Angelique Brown as possibilities for state.

"Any open events will provide strong competition," said Briggs. "But in the relays, we can consistently put out four girls with above average talent. Other teams have comparable numbers, but we have talent in our depth."

The Trojanettes were third in team scoring at last year's sectional at Greenville, but won't be facing the two teams which were ahead of them (Carlinville and Piasa Southwestern) as they move back down south. Winning the team competition is nice, but qualifying as many individuals and relay teams as possible is the objective, and Madison figures to make a killing with a killer lineup.

"It's a very good track in Red Bud," Briggs said. "We should have no excuses. We'll be ready."

In Class AA action, the area-wide girls sectional is Friday at Belleville East. Granite City, along with everyone else, seems ticketed to try and grab whatever the East St. Louis Lincoln Tigerettes don't want. Nino Fenny's Tigerettes have won nine of the last 10 state titles (seven in a row) and seem to have a worthy successor to Jackie Joyner in Carmelita Williams, who has won four gold medals at state in each of her first two years.

The Lady Warriors' best chances would appear to be Diana Brandt and Julie Kern in the weight events. There is more talent, but Lincoln is ultra-deep and seems to take what it wants. Other schools in the sectional are Alton, Althoff, Belleville East, Belleville West, Civil Memorial, Cahokia, Collinsville, East St. Louis, Edwardsville, Jerseyville, Roxana and Wood River.

'Doomsday' defense kills Warriors, 5-0

By Dave Whaley
Executive sports editor

BELLEVILLE — The Doomsday Defense originated in Dallas in the early 1970s. It struck fear in the heart of its opponents. The Warriors exhibited their own Doomsday Defense on Tuesday — and Tom Landry, Chuck Howley, Bob Lilly and Mel Renfro would not have approved. It struck fear only in the hearts of the Warriors and their fans. It was Doomsday only for themselves.

Mark Begando's terrific pitching performance was backed by six Granite City errors as the Warriors handed Belleville West all of its runs in a 5-0 loss. "That was as good a pitching effort I've ever had against a Belleville team," said Bob Stegmeyer.

But how 'bout the defense, coach?

"That was as bad a defensive effort as a ball club of mine has ever had," Stegmeyer said.

Great pitching, bad defense, no hitting. One out of three went down. As a result, the Maroons (7-0, 16-1) wrapped up a share of the Southwestern Conference title and can clinch it for themselves with a win at home today against Collinsville. The Warriors fell to 3-5 in conference play.

On Wednesday, the Warriors raised their record to 15-12 by scoring two runs in the seventh for a 4-3 win at Francis Howell North. Mike Mueller, Kory Burton, Tony Sternberg and Joe Wallace had RBIs while Tim Black (3-2) picked up the win. Chris Bartling had two hits and the Warriors didn't commit an error. They play at East St. Louis today and host Roxana tomorrow.

Sophomore Rob Lisch, the brother of former Notre Dame and NFL quarterback Rusty Lisch, kept the Warrior offense all but silent with a two-hit shut-out. Tony Sternberg has a second-inning single, but was erased in a double play. Chris Ryan walked in the fourth, but was out stealing Rich Schardan singled in the sixth, but was stranded.

Lisch faced only one over the minimum while striking out five and walking one in a 90-minute game. He is now 6-0 with a 1.02 ERA.

"He was hittable, but he did pitch a good game," Stegmeyer said. Lisch had a nice curve ball and we're not a curve ball-hitting team. We were very sluggish with the bats today.

The Warriors weren't too good. (See BASEBALL, Page 4D)

Goal drought continues; Debevc out until playoffs

By Mike Kelly

ST. LOUIS — Scoring goals of late has been about as tough as trying to find water in the desert for the Lady Warrior soccer team.

Granite City played to a 90-minute scoreless tie with Hazelwood East on Tuesday. The Spartan coaching staff decided not to play any overtime periods.

It was the second scoreless tie of the season for the Lady Warriors and the fourth time they've been shut out overall. Granite City is 9-4-2 and riding a three-game winless streak. The Lady Warriors are 8-0 in games in which they've scored more than one goal, but only 1-4-2 when they've scored one goal or fewer.

Hazelwood East is also struggling of late as the Spartans, who are 10-5-2, have gone 0-3-1 in their last four games. Granite City was once again without the services of Jennifer Debevc. She re-aggravated the collateral ligament in her right knee in Monday's game at Collinsville and will sit out the rest of the regular season.

Actually, there's only one game remaining and that will be a home game against Metro East Lutheran on Monday.

Debevc will return for the sectional, in which Granite City will open at home May 25. In the meantime, Granite City must find a way to score. But as Lady Warrior coach Gene Baker puts it, the Lady Warriors are concentrating on the post-season.

"We're trying to ready ourselves for the tournament," he said. "We're aiming our approach at preparation. It's like a race horse. We've pulled off the pace just a little bit. We have to communicate more out there, something we did early in the season that helped in our scoring and defensive schemes."

We were relaxed while putting thoughts through words on the field."

Tuesday's game was played into a very strong westerly wind. Granite City elected to go against the wind in the first half. Consequently, East had the ball

Mon-Clair season opens at Maxvill Field Sunday

By Dave Whaley
Executive sports editor

Granite City's introduction into the prestigious Mon-Clair League becomes official Sunday. The Merchants will open their inaugural season of play with a 1:30 p.m. double-header at Dal Maxvill Field against the Sauget Wizards, the defending league champions. Dafen DePew, the catcher/manager of the Merchants, is anxious to get going.

"I think we've put together a pretty good team," he said. "I'm looking forward to it."

DePew probably won't have all the players he wants until sometime next month when all the college baseball is over. The Merchants have several college players on their roster, although some will be ready to go Sunday. Lewis and Clark Community College was eliminated from the JUCO playoffs Saturday, which means Darin Hendrickson and John Moad will be ready for the opener.

Hendrickson, however, hasn't pitched in three weeks because of a bad arm. He may or may not be able to throw Sunday after a good season at LCCC in which he had a 1.68 ERA.

"We'll have enough guys to play," said DePew. "We've got Doug Rains and Paul Barrington available to pitch, and Darin and John (Moad) might be available."

DePew, an assistant coach at SIUE, likely won't have any of the Cougar players he has signed to play for the Merchants available Sunday, but the reason is a happy one.

"We (SIUE) might get a bid to the regionals," DePew said. "We'll find out Sunday."

SIUE players on the Merchants roster include P.J. Riley, Bob Sirtak and Tim Wargo.

The Wizards should give the Merchants a good indication of where they stand immediately. Sauget was 42-12 last year, and won the Mon-Clair League play-

Park baseball parade Saturday

The Granite City Park District will kick off the boys' baseball and girls' softball season Saturday with the annual Little League Parade.

The parade will begin at 1 p.m. at 24th Street and Madison Avenue. It will include representation of all teams that will participate in the Granite City Park District leagues this season. The boys' leagues will have 32 teams ages 5-15. The girls will have 14 teams ages 10-13.

The Granite City High School marching band will highlight the parade. Dignitaries riding in trucks will include Cardinal general manager Dal Maxvill, Granite City Mayor Von Der Guse, Park District President George Sykes, Vice President Nancy Sanders-Milax, Commissioners

Barry Loman, Don Darnell and Ron Parente, Treasurer Olga Mink, Secretary Billie Schuler, School Board President Joleen Terrell, Walter Milton of the Alton Pepsi-Cola Bottling Co., which sponsors the entire Alton League for 8-year-olds — and Pastor Samuel Boda.

The parade will end at Dal Maxvill Field in Wilson Park, where brief ceremonies will be held which officially kick off the season. Transistor radios will be given out to one player in each league and tickets to a Cardinal game will be given out complimentary of Cruse.

Immediately after the ceremonies, the opening games will be played on every diamond in Wilson Park.

Hansel's pitching, Hunt's power send Lady Warriors to 11-1 loss

By Mike Kelly
Correspondent

ALTON — The old saying about good pitching stopping good hitting has been the Lady Warriors' password — the past week.

Getting a hit or scoring runs can be as tough as trying to find a rose bush in bloom during January against the caliber of pitching Granite City has faced in the past three games. The Lady Warriors have faced Mikki McPherson of Belleville East, Amy Johannsen of Belleville West and Terri Hansel of Civic Memorial in succession.

It's almost like going against Dwight Gooden, Roger Clemens and Nolan Ryan. All the Lady Warriors have to show for their troubles is three straight losses, and only one run scored in the last is innings.

On Wednesday at Gordon Moore Park, the Lady Warriors were battered by Civic Memorial 11-1. The game was called in the fifth inning because of the 10-run rule. The day before, Granite City was shut out by Belleville West 10-0 in a game that was called in the sixth inning. Johannsen limited Granite City to only two hits. The Lady Warriors are now 2-6 in the SWC, 6-10 overall.

It was a two-man wrecking crew for the Eagles, who improved their record to 12-6, as winning pitcher Terri Hansel and catcher Jennifer Hunt did all the damage. After surrendering Granite City's only run in the first inning, Hansel got into a groove and proceeded to mow down the Lady Warriors. Hansel scattered five hits, struck out five and didn't walk anyone. Hunt, who has five home runs on the year, also set a school record with her power display.

Hunt put the Eagles in front for good with her first homer of the day in the bottom of the first, wipping out a short-lived 1-0 Granite City lead.

Hunt's second home run highlighted a four-run second inning, as the Eagles (12-6) extended their lead to 6-1, and her final round-tripper came in the fourth and buried the Lady Warriors as the lead grew to 8-1.

"We just asserted Jennell into the third spot recently," said CM coach Jeff Dyer. "She used to be our leadoff hitter, but due to some absenteeism on the team, we placed her third in the batting order, where she's responded very well."

Kim Pawlak was the unfortunate victim, as she lasted four innings while suffering her fifth loss in ten decisions.

Granite City coach Jim Davis was visibly frustrated after watching his team get devoured by an overpowering pitcher for the third straight game.

"This has been our problem all year, scoring runs against good pitchers," he said. "It's not so much that we've been playing that bad. It's just the fact we're playing teams who are a little bit better than we are. The one thing I can tell you is our kids won't quit."

Jennifer Cavaness had Granite City's lone RBI, with ground ball out in the first after consecutive hits by Tiffany Winters and Michelle Bequette. The Lady Warrior did threaten again in the fourth, as they put runners on first and second with two outs, but Cheryl Holcamp was retired on a ground ball to the shortstop.

The Lady Warriors will try to get back on the winning track as they host the four-team Granite City Tournament on Saturday at Wilson Park. The semifinal games will begin at 10 a.m., with Granite City playing Roxana while Wood River takes on Alton Marquette. The third-place and championship games will be played a half hour after the semifinals are completed.

How about a statue for Phillip?

A man I met at a local restaurant gave me an idea which has a lot of merit.

John Petish Sr., who happens to be a dead ringer for Bob Guelker, the great soccer coach at SIUE, wanted to talk about the Granite City Sports Hall of Fame. He's for the idea, no doubt about it. But his idea was that something extra should be done about enhancing the appeal of the Hall of Fame building which is rapidly being erected.

It's Petish's idea that a statue of Andy Phillip should be erected in front of the building which is going up just south of Memorial Stadium on the campus of Granite City High School. The statue would be something like that of Stan Musial in front of Busch Stadium.

"There's a lot of great athletes who have and will be in the future enshrined in our Hall of Fame, no doubt about it," said Petish. "But Andy's feats make him a logical choice for something extra."

Petish went on to recite Phillip's accomplishments, which are indeed impressive. He led Granite City High School to the only state basketball championship in school history in 1940. He went on to the University of Illinois, gaining national acclaim as a member of the famed Whiz Kids. After service with the Marines in World War II, Phillip helped reunite the Whiz Kids before going on to play many years in the NBA with the Boston Celtics.

This reporter thinks Petish has come up with an outstanding idea.

Andy Phillip was — and still is — an excellent athlete. Now living in California, Andy wasn't able to make it back to town for his own Hall of Fame dedication. But I do know one thing. Sometime last Friday, Andy Phillip's mind turned back to his hometown. It's safe to say many in his hometown had thoughts of him.

Gundaker gets birthday win • Baseball

By Joe Senter
Correspondent

GRANITE CITY — Kevin Gundaker celebrated his 34th birthday by winning the U.M.P. late model stock car feature Saturday at Tri-City Speedway.

Gundaker, of St. Charles, Mo., was like a puppet on a string as he circled the half-mile dirt track smoothly. Terry and Larry Phillips, a father and son team from Springfield, Mo., were hot on Gundaker's tail for the last 10 laps before Gundaker took over.

Terry settled for third as John Gill came in second. Mike Wallace of Ponton took fourth after starting the race in the 11th spot.

On the 11th lap, Larry Phillips came to a halt in the third turn. John Prior, Brian Ashbury, Ron Fisher and Randy Booth — bearing down on the leaders — had nowhere to go and crashed into each other. All were knocked out of the race.

Larry Phillips came upon three lapped cars with 10 laps to go and had nowhere to go. Gundaker shot around him and went on for the win. Finishing behind Wallace were Dick Taylor, Rick Standridge, Paul Schaffer, Kevin Claycomb, Terry English and Junior Schickel.

Gibby Steinhaus took the trophy dash. Terry Phillips, Schaffer and Larry Phillips won the heat races.

Randy Korte was the main man in the sportsman's cars as he won his heat race and the feature event. Following Korte at the checkered flag were Darin Forrest, Gary Archambault, Don Carter, Paul Humphrey and Matt Taylor.

Dave Jones took his second feature event in succession in the street stocks. Jones also took the trophy dash. Heat races went to Rick Rhoades and Jim Lafferty. Rhoades was second in the feature followed by Lafferty, Rick Carter, Mark Sanders and Maury Bargetzi.

center fielder, moved out of the area. And our right fielder, Jerry Pitchford, is now coaching in a college league in Virginia.

Giegling had 14 home runs and 75 RBIs last year while Pitchford had 15 homers and 80 RBIs. But the Wizards are well-stocked in the pitching department. Lefty Joe Mehallow was 21-5 last year and won the ERA title. Right-hander John Parks was 12-5. They figure to start the two games Sunday.

"Joe was drafted by the California Angels, but he never signed," said Greenwald. "You don't see that many veteran pitchers like him in the league. A lot of the position players are older, but most of the pitchers are younger than Joe (28)."

Despite the loss of Giegling and Pitchford, the Wizards will still have plenty of offense to come at the Granite City pitching. Greenwald, at the age of 36, batted out 18 home runs and 93 RBIs with 44 doubles.

"That's pretty good for an old man, I guess," he said. "I've been working out a lot and we'll see what happens."

Bob Hughes, 39, the head coach at St. Louis U., is a five-time all-star and a consistent 350 hitter at third base. Shortstop Neil Fiala, who played briefly in the major leagues, hit 443 at shortstop last season. Second baseman Dave Kassebaum hit 333 in the leadoff spot with 10 home runs and 52 RBIs. Catcher Jeff Junker had 15 home runs and 80 RBIs. The Wizards also have Rick Fiala, Bob Wilbur and Dan Nicholson ready to compensate for the loss of Pitchford and Giegling.

Although the Wizards won the Mon-Clair League, they finished last in the Metro East Night League on Wednesdays.

"We had a completely different lineup for the weeknight games," said Greenwald. "But we're not making excuses. We look that league seriously. But Parks couldn't play during the week and we usually had Joe only pitch three or four innings to save him for a Sunday game."

Sunday is the day. Big-time amateur baseball is coming to Granite City.

The Maroons got the only run they really needed in the first. Begando walked Ted Smith with two outs and Brian Daubach got an infield hit. Then Doug York popped straight up. But the wind grabbed the ball a little as catcher Joe Wallace struggled. Wallace fell backwards — and maybe stepped on the bat — as he caught the ball, but it popped loose as he hit the ground. Smith was running all the way from second and scored easily.

Rich Schardan made an error at shortstop in the second and first baseman Kory Burton made a throwing error in the third, but Begando (2-3) pitched around them.

He had no such luck in the fourth. Jody Pithian walked before Wallace's throw on Dan Biegler's sacrifice went off second baseman Chris Ryan's glove as the runners ended up on second and third. Chris Crabtree's grounder was booted by Burton as Pithian scored. Then Mike Buente singled in front of right fielder Keith Matlock to make it 3-0.

"They did get one earned run, but that was a tainted one," Stegemeier said. "Keith should get that ball, and if he does with his arm, that run won't score. We couldn't catch pop flies or routine grounders today."

Mike Lawson walked to load the bases before Jeff Terveer's infield hit and Smith's sacrifice fly plated two more runs to close out the scoring. Begando picked up his first to help himself get out of the inning and picked off another later.

"They had four hits and three of them were infield hits and the other should have been caught," said Stegemeier. "I don't know what else we can ask of Mark. He was hitting his spots and doing a great job against a good team."

The Maroons entered the game with a .324 team average, but were fortunate to score any runs.

"We played great defensively Thursday," Stegemeier said of a double-header sweep of Belleville East. "And then we turn around and play like this. We just don't play hard all the time. Begando deserved much better."

It was hard to go to the Belleville West field and not remember a crushing 10-0 loss there a year ago when the Warriors took a 9-4 lead into the bottom of the seventh. Granite City knocked the cover off the ball that day, getting home runs from Wallace, Mike Kraus and John Moad and four other balls which hit the fence on the fly. But a series of defensive breakdowns, questionable calls and clutch Maroon hits in the seventh cost Moad the victory before Begando took the loss in extra innings.

"This is a little easier to take than that one," Stegemeier said. "You can't win if you don't score. And this one sure didn't take long."

NOTES: In other conference action Tuesday, Herb Cathion pitched a three-hit shutout as East St. Louis blanked Alton 2-0. Jason Ford homered for the Flyers, who are the only team left with a remote shot at catching Belleville West. The resurgent Collinsville Kahoks scored two in the top of the seventh and held on for a 7-6 win at Belleville East.

in the Granite City zone quite a bit during the first half, but the Lady Warriors' defense was equal to the challenge. Led by Beth Epperson, Julie Dempsey and Jennifer Hagnauer, Granite City containingly frustrated Hazelwood East. Despite the strong wind, the Spartans only outshot the Lady Warriors 5-4 in the opening 40 minutes.

"You are forced to play defensively against them because their style dictates a team concept," Hazelwood East coach Dale Harmon said of the Lady Warriors. "They play a diamond offense and defense, something our girls aren't used to. The concept is a total game plan, where Gene tries to maintain control of the middle of the field. Any coach will tell you that if you can do that, then you'll have a lot of scoring chances and you can dominate the game."

Those words proved to be true in the second half as Granite City outshot Hazelwood East 4-1 and had four corner kicks to none for the Spartans.

Granite City's best opportunities were provided by Amanda Witter and Angela Blason. Witter's chance came at the ten-minute mark when she burst in from the left side and beat goalkeeper Kris Tebbe to the ball. But the play was thwarted as Tami Akihiro cleared the ball out of the penalty area before Witter could reach it. The other opportunity came 20 minutes later when Cheryl Stacey delivered a beautiful cross to the far post on a corner kick, but Blason couldn't make the connection.

Despite the missed chances, Baker thought his younger players created some good things on the field.

"It was a beautiful cross, but part of it is playing the wind and doing other little things," he said.

The best scoring opportunity for Hazelwood East came at the 15-minute mark when Brenda Wermke broke in off the left wing, but Lady Warrior freshman keeper Leslie Stavelly smothered her shot against the near post.
